Mosley's Black Shirts Attack Marchers as Police Break Up Rioting

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Thousands of hungry marchers battled their way toward London today to the music of fife and drum corps and the strain of "Keep the Home Fires Burning," plodding over muddy roads through a cold, drenching rain.

The unemployed object chiefly to the provisions of the "means test," by which those receiving dole benefits must show that they have no other means of support. A petition presented to the county council demanded a general 25 per cent reduction of all rents, additional financial assistance, free meals for school children of the unemployed, and a hundredweight of coal free for each unemployed family.

The hunger march has been quiet and without serious disturbances, but last night in London members of Sir Oswald Mosley's "Black Shirts" clashed with a group of unemployed in the Strand, the heart of London's business and theatrical district. The Black Shirts, the nearest thing to Fascists in England, were marching to their headquarters in Whitehall from a meeting when they were heckled by unemployed.

The Black Shirts broke their ranks and charged the hecklers. There was a brief and furious scuffle until police arrived. Several injuries were recorded.

The Fascists then reformed their ranks and continued their march toward headquarters. When they reached Whitehall, at the top of the Strand, they found police had arrived first and cordoned the street.

The marchers dispersed. Sir Oswald Mosley appeared on the headquarters steps and was cheered. Sir Oswald is one of the younger political leaders discredited by "antiquated" methods of government.

HEAVY WIND STORM IS CAUSE OF DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Dry northeast winds whipped across Southern California today, after having brought death to a small boy and extensively damaged property.

Felix Moreno, 10, of Guasti, was blown directly into the path of an automobile, and was fatally injured.

Winds attained a velocity of 50 miles an hour in some parts of the southland, although Los Angeles itself escaped the blow because of intervening hills.

Most of the damage to property was done in the La Crescenta valley, where garages were overturned and trees uprooted. Four brush fires were whipped to threatening proportions by the high winds.

Takes Dislike To Sister's New Red Hair

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Edward Achman was on probation today because he did not like his sister's newly acquired red hair.

His sister, Mrs. Irene Adams, testified Achman met her on the street.

"I had just had my hair dyed," she said. "He said, 'Hello, you redhead' and hit me in the eye. I like my hair dyed and so does my husband."

Achman was put on probation for six months.

SEARCHER FOR 2 LOST HIKERS DIES IN FALL

MONROVIA, Oct. 25.—(UP)—One member of a searching party, seeking two lost hikers, was killed shortly before midnight last night when he fell into a deep, mountainous canyon.

Charles White of Monrovia lost his footing and fell headlong into the chasm. His body was not recovered.

The hikers, P. R. Lundy, Los Angeles banker, and Lloyd Nelson, Arcadia school teacher, were found in the wilds of Monrovia canyon. They had strayed more than a mile apart and were rescued by separate searching parties.

White, with other members of the searching band which later found Lundy, was crawling along on the face of a cliff when a dislodged boulder struck him in the head and catapulted him into a deep chasm. His companions believed he was killed instantly. Because of the unknown depth of the precipice and the high gales which made every step extremely precarious, they made no attempt to recover the body immediately.

Despite the tragedy, the searchers pushed onward until they found Lundy, marooned on a narrow

SECOND LINDBERGH BABY NAMED "JON"

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Jon Morrow Lindbergh has been selected as the name of the second son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, intimates of the family said today.

The baby was born six months after their first baby, Charles Augustus, Jr., was kidnapped and killed, and since that time details as to the baby and his name have been withheld.

Close secrecy surrounded the birth of the second baby, the Lindberghs holding that too much publicity was partly responsible for the fate that befell Charles Augustus, Jr.

Jon is a Swedish name and apparently was chosen from the Lindbergh side of the family. Morrow is Mrs. Lindbergh's family name.

PRINCE OF WALES GIVEN ARMED GUARD

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The Prince of Wales will be given the largest armed bodyguard he ever had when he visits Belfast next month, the Daily Herald said today.

According to the Herald's Belfast correspondent, Belfast authorities ordered all police leave cancelled during the prince's visit. They are arranging the utmost precautions to ensure the prince's safety, when he opens the new Northern Ireland Parliament building.

The Sinn Fein standing committee at Dublin already has protested the prince's visit as the latest "English act of defiance of the rights and liberties of the Irish people in a further attempt to stabilize the partition of Ireland."

JAPAN OPPOSES AMERICAN PLAN FOR DISARMING

Counter Proposal Will Be Submitted to Powers at Geneva Soon

TOKIO, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Japan will oppose the Anglo-American formula for uniform reduction of naval armaments, it was asserted today by Navy Minister Keisuke Okada.

Admiral Okada indicated Japan would submit a counter plan based on the thesis that for an island empire, such as Japan, defensive naval strength is more important than offensive strength.

It was understood details of the plan will be submitted to the powers at Geneva by Vice Admiral Shushin Nagano, Japanese naval representative to the League of Nations.

The cabinet was reported to have studied the Anglo-American proposals at great length and to have rejected them as unacceptable to Japan.

Cabinet officers assertedly felt Japan would jeopardize national security if the Japanese navy were reduced in proportion to reductions that might be acceptable to other powers.

High Japanese officials were greatly interested in London reports that the Anglo-American arms discussion had reached a point where it was opened to reconcile President Hoover's proposals and the British counter proposals for naval reductions.

In event of agreement between Britain and the United States, it was expected an attempt would be made to include Japan, France and Italy in a five-power reduction agreement including land and air.

PROSPECTOR HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 25.—(UP)—A young prospector who found the nude and battered body of a young woman near here, was held today as a material witness while authorities sought to establish the girl's identity.

Officers refused to comment on the sudden arrest of Fred W. Schwarm, stating only that he was held "as a material witness."

Belief that the victim was Miss Marjorie Ware of Neosho, Mo., was disproved with the discovery that the Missouri girl now is living at Santa Paula. Two friends, Mrs. Pearl Ary and Miss Margaret Gibson, both of San Bernardino, had said photographs of the victim resembled Miss Ware. Later, Miss Ware was located.

U.S. STEEL DECLARES REGULAR DIVIDEND

Pound Sterling Hits Year's Low

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Another slump in the pound sterling today carried it to $3.23 1-2, off 3 cents from yesterday's close and a new low for the year. The drop probably was due in part to the convergence on London of thousands of hungry marchers, foreign experts said.

A variety of causes for the decline was cited in addition to the parade which focused attention of foreigners on the record level of unemployment.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Alfred E. Smith has launched his campaign to win the east for Franklin D. Roosevelt with a fighting speech in which he announced he personally wrote the Democratic prohibition plank.

Smith's first address on behalf of the national ticket was chiefly a review of the campaign of 1928 when he was the Democratic nominee for president. He ascribed the Democratic defeat in that election to the "bigotry, deceit and hypocrisy of the Republican party."

Then in the closing moments of his address the "happy warrior" declared the only way to restore prosperity was to "elect the Democratic ticket of Roosevelt and Garner."

Grand Jury Is Told Of Forgeries

Confesses Theft of $8000 and Returns $3100 to School Authorities

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Complexities of a Jekyll-Hyde existence, together with the necessity for funds to finance a dual-life, brought Elliot B. Thomas, Redondo Beach schoolmaster, before the county grand jury today.

The former superintendent of schools told the jury of alleged thefts and forgeries which brought him between $8000 and $10,000 during the last 30 months. It was a repetition of a tearful confession Thomas assertedly made to District Attorney Buron Pitts last night.

A haunting fear of the law, and not romance, drove Thomas to plot a kidnapping hoax and seek oblivion under the name of E. T. Sherwood, he claimed today.

He admitted that he disappeared under strange circumstances and fled to Washington because he knew eventually his alleged thefts would be discovered and public disgrace would follow.

The 35-year-old former Burbank school teacher made his confession in the presence of his loyal wife, Mrs. Olive Thomas, who greeted his return from near-marriage in the northwest with a mother would understandingly forgive a wayward son.

The man, under the name of Sherwood, abandoned, almost at the altar, Miss Sylvia Wilson of Seattle.

"My plan to marry Miss Wilson was just a part of the whole plot to do away with Thomas and to begin life anew as Sherwood," he said.

"I staged the fake kidnapping and robbery to protect my wife. She is the only one I love and I didn't want her to be hurt when discovery of the theft came. I couldn't run away from her as other people run away sometimes. It would reflect on her."

But Thomas said, his conscience hounded him to Seattle, and even before he knew his hoax had been discovered, he planned to return and make a clean breast of it all.

He turned over to authorities $3100 of the money he said he had stolen by forging the names of school board members on check warrants of the school district to fictitious teachers.

The grand jury later today planned to question C. C. Cribbs and Charles Pierpont, members of the Redondo school board.

Thomas is in the hospital ward of the county jail, suffering from a kidney ailment.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Charges of "playing politics" made against State Forester M. B. Pratt have not been substantiated, Governor Rolph declared today in announcing he would retain Pratt in his state job.

The governor's decision not to remove the state forester followed a hearing last night attended by Pratt and S. Rex Black, chairman of the state board of forestry, who was said to have recommended the ouster.

Rolph indicated yesterday following his return from a tour of northern California counties that he would relieve Pratt of his forestry position because of charges made to him that the state forester had opposed Justice Hugh

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Arthur Hyde was en route today for San Francisco after pleading for the reelection of President Hoover in an address here last night.

The cabinet member, in an aggressive speech, charged Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt with making capital out of distress and with deliberate misrepresentation of the president.

"Seventy per cent of the speeches of Governor Roosevelt consist in rolling the agonies of the people unctuously off his tongue, in misrepresenting the president, and in attempting to stir resentment," he said.

Investigation Reveals Local Merchant Killed With Bar, Not Hammer

NO KNOWN ENEMIES

Authorities Abandon Robbery Motive Theory; Cash Found in Register

SANTA ANA POLICE were today in a quandary after 24 hours of investigation of the brutal murder, shortly after noon yesterday, of Manus Gantman, merchant, at 310 East Fourth street, whose body was found lying partly under a table, by two Mexican customers.

The search for the murderers of the man is handicapped due to the fact that the police have unearthed no clue which shows a motive for the crime. Chief of Police F. W. Howard said today.

That Gantman had no known enemies led to the theory that robbery may have been the motive, but police have abandoned this theory, chiefly because there was no robbery of the cash register, some $40 being found in the till at the time the body was found, and also due to the fact that the implement of death, a long iron bar, together with a greasy hammer, were brought into the store by the murderers.

Gantman was killed with an iron bar and not with a claw hammer as first reported. There was a hammer found on a counter a few feet from the body, and it was brought into the store by the murderer, police believe, but it was the iron bar that caused the merchant's death.

There was blood and hair on the bar. There was nothing on the hammer, not even fingerprints. Due to the fact that both

School Girl Injured, Motorist Taken Into Custody

ACCUSE DRIVER OF FAILING TO STOP FOR BUS

A short time after the car he was said to have been driving ran down and seriously injured a little school girl of Tustin, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Sidney R. Dunton, 27, farm hand, employed on the George ranch, was arrested by George Peterkin and lodged in the county jail.

The girl was Ruth Evelyn Shoemaker, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shoemaker, of Tustin. She was rushed to the Santa Ana Valley hospital where it was reported she suffered both legs broken, between the knee and the hip. She also suffered several cuts about the head. Her condition, although serious, will not prove fatal, hospital attendants said.

Reckless Driving Charge
On information that Dunton did not stop at the time of the accident and give his name, in accordance with a state law, he was arrested. He is charged with reckless driving and with violation of section 134 1-2 of the motor vehicle law, which requires all cars to stop while children are alighting from school buses.

His arrest followed the driver of the school bus taking the number of his car, and he was arrested at his home.

Pleads Not Guilty
Today, before Justice of the Peace D. L. McCharles at Tustin, Dunton, through his attorney, Franklin G. West, of Santa Ana, entered a plea of not guilty. Bail of $200 was placed on him, which he made. No time for the preliminary hearing has been set as yet.

According to information received here, the little girl had just stepped from the school bus when she was struck. She was returning to her home from school at the time.

THOUSANDS ON HUNGER MARCH INTO LONDON

her of the Labor party with his wife, Lady Cynthia Mosley, resigned in 1931 to form the "New Party." It was pledged to more modern methods of administration, but was wiped out in the last general election. Sir Oswald then formed the "Black Shirts." Sir Oswald and Lady Cynthia are socially prominent and wealthy.

Groups already on the road totaled more than 3000. Many others were preparing to start the trek. Pipers, bands and fifers and drummers cheered the marchers on their way here to protest dole reductions in an immense demonstration planned for Thursday.

Although roads were submerged in many places, and the marchers were drenched by cold rains that have swept the country for a week, they maintained their march on schedule with a minimum of "grousing."

"We will sleep at Buckingham palace or at Claridges hotel when we get to London," some of the marchers said jocularly. They have been sleeping in dance halls, schoolhouses and community centers during the march.

London police were prepared for trouble, after the unemployment demonstrations that marked the recent opening of parliament.

Yesterday, when a small reputation representing the marchers visited the general purposes committee of the London county council, a force of special constables estimated at over 1000 occupied the London county hall. It was near the hall, across Westminster bridge from the houses of parliament, that the most serious of the recent disturbances occurred.

POLICE BALKED IN SOLVING OF LOCAL MURDER

the hammer and the bar were greasy, there was little chance to find fingerprints, officers said.

Struck From Rear
The murderer struck Gantman from the rear, in the opinion of the police. The first blow broke his skull at the base on the left hand side. He fell backwards and as he did was struck another terrific blow on the left side of the skull. Either blow would have caused death, police said.

Gantman either turned his back to the murderer or there were two murderers, police believe. While one attracted his attention, he was killed by the other. The fact that the bar and hammer were separated by several feet, may have meant that one murderer was armed with the bar, the other with the hammer.

If robbery was the motive officers said, then the men were amateurs and after striking the merchant, became frightened, possibly at the blood and ran without robbing the cash register.

Members of the family have been questioned closely but none of them can throw any light on the mystery, none can advance any reason why Manus Gantman was murdered. A father with three children he led a peaceful quiet life, officers learned and if there was anything in his life that would lead someone to kill him, they apparently know nothing of it.

Run Down Clues
Police were today running down several clues picked up from persons who knew Gantman intimately but they admitted they did not look unusually interesting at this stage of the investigation.

Capt. Jess Buckles last night ran down a clue after finding a bloody undershirt near 811 East Pine street in an automobile. The clue faded when he learned that it was used by a man whose nose was bleeding.

Gantman's body is at the Smith and Tutill funeral parlors here where an inquest will be held, probably tomorrow, according to Bert Castles, assistant coroner. No time has been set.

The meeting will be held at 6:30 p. m. in American Legion Hall, Orange. Report of the delegator to the state convention will be presented during the business meeting with Judge Thompson delivering the principal address.

and industrial east it was apparent today.

The president's first conference this week over his next speech were with Senator Glenn, Repn. Ill., and Rep. Fish, Repn. N. Y. Both left the White House criticizing Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt along the "radicalism" line.

The chief executive regards the New York speech as one of the high spots in his personal campaign for re-election. He slashed at his opponent in his Detroit address, but even more biting criticism is planned.

Mr. Hoover is working at length on the speech, conferring with political advisers and departmental experts, and gathering data to put a "new punch" in it.

This feeling on the part of the president regarding the importance of his New York utterance caused some doubt into the mid-west again this week. He was expected to decide definitely soon on the matter of this immediate third invasion of the doubtful area. Reports persisted that he might go to Indianapolis for a speech there Friday, then to Chicago for a Saturday address, before swinging to New York.

The rumored California journey at the end of the campaign remained purely conjectural.

"I have found that charges of disloyalty against Pratt were unfounded," said the governor. "It was probably a case of mistaken identity and there is no need for further action."

A flood of statewide protests against Pratt's removal were received at the governor's office following reports that he was to go.

Among others protesting his removal were Ernest G. Dudley, Exeter, member of the forestry board; the Southern California Fruit Growers association; the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; the Society of American Foresters; many recreational and watershed interests, and Charles J. Dunwoody, director of the conservation department of the State Chamber of Commerce.

"I can produce representatives of 200 organizations who will testify that to protect the forestry program, Pratt must be retained," Dunwoody told the governor at the hearing.

Regarding accusations of inefficiency against Pratt in connection with the conduct of state labor camps for the relief of unemployment, Rolph said:

"I am assured that the labor program for the coming winter will proceed as I am determined it shall—in harmony and with proper care for the needy."

10 Year Old Boy Drags Self Home With Broken Leg

Although his leg was broken, Glenn Hurtado, 10, Olive youth, managed to drag himself to his home, a distance of several hundred yards, yesterday afternoon, after he had fallen into a ditch.

By the time he reached home, he was unable to use the leg. His parents rushed him to the Orange county hospital, where the leg was put in splints.

His condition today was reported as satisfactory. The boy broke the leg as he attempted to jump over a ditch, he said.

The time has come to eliminate political secretaries of agriculture and to substitute for them a secretary whom the farmers will recognize as one of their own," Roosevelt said.

The governor, in discussing reforestation, which Secretary Hyde had ridiculed, advocated that 10 to 20 percent of farm acreage in states east of the Mississippi river should be converted to tree crops.

"I am convinced that herein lies a fertile field, not only for the legitimate investment of capital, but also for the employment of labor."

"There are, of course, a few childish minds who think of reforestation as the growing of tree crops as a process in setting out little seedling trees which have been grown in nurseries. Anybody who has advanced beyond the kindergarten stage knows better."

"Almost all practical commercial reforestation is in its origin an act of nature and not of man. The use of labor of man enters the picture when it becomes necessary to eliminate the less valuable types among the young growth, to cull out the crooked trees, the decayed trees, and to prevent ravages of fire in the growing forests."

He said that administration of the $125,000,000 land bank funds, raised through appropriations sponsored by Democrats, had been left to Republican appointees.

"The farmers of America have been justly disappointed in the manner in which it has been administered," he said.

SHOE FACTORY MAY BE MOVED TO SANTA ANA

Plans for the promotion of ways and means of securing industries in Santa Ana was discussed at a meeting of about 40 of the leading business and financial men of the city which was held yesterday in Ketter's cafe at the call of the chamber of commerce.

George A. Raymer, secretary of the chamber, presided at the meeting and discussed various industrial problems which are being faced at the present time.

Raymer announced that a shoe manufacturing concern, now located in Los Angeles, plans to move here and utilize the old chewing gum plant on St. Gertrude street for the factory. The move will be made, it was understood, if enough money is raised locally to pay for the moving expenses and for repairing the building.

Has $10,000 Payroll
The concern has a payroll of $10,000 a month and is now employing 125 persons. Cost of moving the machinery here would not exceed $10,000, according to Raymer. The company has a high rating at about $100,000, he said.

Discussion as to what would or could be done with the wooden mills plant on Washington street, the old Ulmer machinery plant near the gum plant and the Standard American plant took place at the meeting. Raymer reported that the Nacelle corporation is installing machinery in the old Kaufman spotlight plant on East First street, and expect to start operations in the near future.

There is also a possibility of the starting of the Standard American Glass plant here, it was learned today. Roy Dion, owner of the property, told Raymer today over the telephone from Los Angeles that the possibilities of starting the factory were good.

Discuss Financing
Secretary Raymer today was planning to carry out a suggestion made at the meeting yesterday to appoint a committee of leading business men to investigate the possibilities of bringing the shoe factory here. Ways and means of raising the money to bring the plant here will be the objective of the group.

The sense of the meeting was, according to expressed opinions, that local business men cooperate with the committee to be appointed, which will work with the industrial committee of the chamber, to locate legitimate, going concerns in Santa Ana.

A suggestion was made that an industrial fund be created by donations from a large group to help finance legitimate, going concerns that are desirous of locating here.

Nelson, the other hiker, was found nearly a mile and a half away by a party led by Fire Chief Harry Stevens of Monrovia. Searchers also had to be lowered by ropes to effect his rescue. Neither Nelson nor his companion had been injured in the fire that had swept the canyon giving rise to fears both men had perished. The two hikers were weak from hunger and exposure.

Searchers advised local authorities that the fury of the fire apparently had spent itself. The blaze, fanned by high winds, had retarded rescue efforts.

Three other fires were reported in the district, one in Castale canyon, another at the head of San Antonio canyon in the Mount Baldy district, and a third at a ranch near Newhall. Forest rangers, augmented by volunteers, battled desperately to bring them under control.

Has $10,000 Payroll
The concern has a payroll of $10,000 a month and is now employing 125 persons. Cost of moving the machinery here would not exceed $10,000, according to Raymer. The company has a high rating at about $100,000, he said.

Discussion as to what would or could be done with the wooden mills plant on Washington street, the old Ulmer machinery plant near the gum plant and the Standard American plant took place at the meeting. Raymer reported that the Nacelle corporation is installing machinery in the old Kaufman spotlight plant on East First street, and expect to start operations in the near future.

There is also a possibility of the starting of the Standard American Glass plant here, it was learned today. Roy Dion, owner of the property, told Raymer today over the telephone from Los Angeles that the possibilities of starting the factory were good.

Discuss Financing
Secretary Raymer today was planning to carry out a suggestion made at the meeting yesterday to appoint a committee of leading business men to investigate the possibilities of bringing the shoe factory here. Ways and means of raising the money to bring the plant here will be the objective of the group.

The sense of the meeting was, according to expressed opinions, that local business men cooperate with the committee to be appointed, which will work with the industrial committee of the chamber, to locate legitimate, going concerns in Santa Ana.

A suggestion was made that an industrial fund be created by donations from a large group to help finance legitimate, going concerns that are desirous of locating here.

Nelson, the other hiker, was found nearly a mile and a half away by a party led by Fire Chief Harry Stevens of Monrovia. Searchers also had to be lowered by ropes to effect his rescue. Neither Nelson nor his companion had been injured in the fire that had swept the canyon giving rise to fears both men had perished. The two hikers were weak from hunger and exposure.

Searchers advised local authorities that the fury of the fire apparently had spent itself. The blaze, fanned by high winds, had retarded rescue efforts.

Three other fires were reported in the district, one in Castale canyon, another at the head of San Antonio canyon in the Mount Baldy district, and a third at a ranch near Newhall. Forest rangers, augmented by volunteers, battled desperately to bring them under control.

SHOE FACTORY MAY BE MOVED TO SANTA ANA

Plans for the promotion of ways and means of securing industries in Santa Ana was discussed at a meeting of about 40 of the leading business and financial men of the city which was held yesterday in Ketter's cafe at the call of the chamber of commerce.

George A. Raymer, secretary of the chamber, presided at the meeting and discussed various industrial problems which are being faced at the present time.

Raymer announced that a shoe manufacturing concern, now located in Los Angeles, plans to move here and utilize the old chewing gum plant on St. Gertrude street for the factory. The move will be made, it was understood, if enough money is raised locally to pay for the moving expenses and for repairing the building.

GLENDALE MAN BLAMED FOR FATAL CRASH

A charge of manslaughter was filed late yesterday afternoon against Rolf Von Eckartsberg, 28, used car dealer, of Glendale, in connection with the automobile crash on South Main street, Orange, last Friday night, in which three Orange students were killed. At the same time, the district attorney's office announced that a charge also would be filed against Arthur D. Moss, Santa Ana used car dealer, of 1905 North Main street, admitted at the inquest that he took Von Eckartsberg away from the scene of the accident.

What charge would be filed against the Santa Ana man had not been determined today. S. B. Kaufman, deputy district attorney said that he would file one of three charges: compounding a felony, assisting in an escape or accessory after the fact. The district attorney's action came during an inquest which was held over the bodies of the three students, Dorothy Hill, 17, Ronald Warden, 17, and Mark Leutzinger, 18, at the Winbiger Funeral home.

A coroner's jury in the case returned a verdict of death for all three, from fractured skulls, as a result of a collision between cars driven by Edwin Johnson, on South Main street, and Von Eckartsberg, on South Main street, Orange. The verdict continued, "We feel that the accident was caused due to the negligent manner in which the Von Eckartsberg machine was being driven and recommend a further investigation by the district attorney's office."

While the inquest was being held, the district attorney's office issued the manslaughter complaint against Von Eckartsberg. He is being held in the county jail. Complaint against Moss probably will be filed this afternoon if it was said. He also is being held in the county jail.

The inquest yesterday was one of the longest that has been held in Santa Ana in a number of years. Unusual interest in the case of the undertaking parlors being filled with spectators.

Testimony Conflicts. Numerous witnesses were heard, several of whom were eye witnesses, and police officers testified that the point of impact was on the west side of the highway, which would have been on the right side of the road for Johnson's machine. Stories told by occupants of the Von Eckartsberg machine did not jibe, which led the jury to reach its decision.

Von Eckartsberg did not testify at the inquest, after he had been told that anything that he might say could be used against him in further court proceedings. One of his companions at the time, C. G. Curtis, also of Glendale, did testify however. He told the jury that Von Eckartsberg was the driver of the death car and that he was in the middle between the driver and Oliver G. Griffin, 53, of Glendale who is in the county hospital suffering from a fracture of the skull received in the crash.

Had a Drink. Curtis testified that he had a drink "they said was grapefruit" at the Moss home, where he said the three of them had been until about 20 minutes before the crash. Moss was on the stand for the better part of an hour. He told of taking Von Eckartsberg away from the scene of the accident, stating he did so because the man was hurt. He said he took him to the front door of a hospital but that Bon Eckartsberg was afraid "they would cut his leg off," so he drove him on in to Glendale, where he called a doctor and had his injuries dressed.

A letter from a Glendale doctor also was read to the jury. The doctor, L. L. Craven, thought "things looked suspicious," he said, so he notified the police after attending Von Eckartsberg was afraid "they was through the doctor that Von Eckartsberg was arrested, although he was found back in Santa Ana at the Moss home, when police walked in, they reported.

Driver Taken Away. Moss said Von Eckartsberg was unconscious when he removed him from the scene of the accident. Curtis and Griffin, who also were knocked unconscious, were left at the side of the road by Moss, however, his interest being centered chiefly in removing Von Eckartsberg. He said he had known Von Eckartsberg about three months.

Moss and Curtis both claimed that Von Eckartsberg did not drink any of the grape juice while he was at the Moss home, but both admitted that they had taken a glass of it. No witness was produced who saw the Eckartsberg car swerve to the left, although Vern Backs, of 423 North Lemon street, Anaheim, who was at a distance of 50 feet from the scene of the crash, testified that he saw the accident, as did Christine Glover, of 410 North Glassell street, an employee of the tavern.

Other witnesses called testified they did not see the crash but were at the scene within a few minutes. Others who testified before the coroner's jury included: Mrs. Estelle T. Miller, of 1301 West Palmyra street, Orange; L. D. Reynolds, 227 South Main street, Orange; Claude K. Reid, employee of Winbiger's; Vernon Barnhill, state officer; Dr. C. C. Hatch, of 1238 West Palmyra, Orange and William Comita, of 802 Spurgeon street, Santa Ana.

James C. Hill, father of Dorothy Hill identified her body, the body of Warden was identified by his step father, S. T. Woodell of 520 East Palmyra street, Orange and the body of Leutzinger was identified by a first cousin, Guy Leutzinger, of 1207 West Fourth street, Santa Ana.

M'KINNEY SPEAKS IN THREE COUNTIES

Preparing for the final drive of the campaign, B. Z. McKinney, Democratic candidate for congress, made appearances in every county of the Nineteenth congressional district during the past 24 hours. Last night he addressed a McKinney meeting at West Riverside, after conferring with party leaders in Ontario, Upland and Chino. Today, McKinney was in San Bernardino, but returned to address the Orange W. C. T. U. at 3 p. m. and is scheduled to address another meeting this evening at Arlington. In West Riverside, last night, he dealt with the tariff question, pointing out that, with the next congress sure to be under Democratic control, regardless of who is elected president, the only way this district can obtain the tariff protection it wants would be by electing a Democratic congressman. A Republican congressman would be helpless against the controlling party, while a Democratic congressman would get cooperation, he said.

MATZ CHOSEN HEAD OF SANTA ANA PASTORS

Officers for the year were elected and plans were made for sponsoring religious education work at the Orange County Health camp at the regular monthly meeting of the Santa Ana Ministerial union in Ketter's cafe yesterday noon.

As a result of the annual election, the Rev. E. W. Matz, pastor of the First Evangelical church, Tenth and Main streets, was chosen to direct affairs of the association for the coming year. He succeeds the Rev. O. W. Reinhold, pastor of the Richland Avenue M. E. church, as head of the city pastors.

Other officers selected are: the Rev. Samuel Edgar, of the Reformed Presbyterian church, vice president; Ralph Smedley, secretary. Decision was reached to ask churches of the county to join in sponsoring a religious dedication program at the Orange County Health camp. The work in the past has been under the direction of L. Crasher of the First Christian church of Santa Ana, and a staff of volunteer assistants, with supplies furnished by the First Christian church. F. R. Schweitzer, former assistant Y. M. C. A. secretary here is to be superintendent of the Sunday school at the camp under the program now under consideration.

FIGHT BRUSH FIRE IN TRABUCO AREA

State Forest Ranger Joe Schuerman was called to the Trabuco Oaks district in Trabuco canyon this morning to assist in putting out a brush fire which broke out there this morning.

According to meager reports from the district, one cabin was destroyed by the fire. The state fire truck stationed in Orange was taken to the fire by the ranger.

A brush fire which burned to within two miles of the Orange county line occupied the attention of the fire fighters in the Santa Ana canyon district last night, with the fire being extinguished after it had burned over considerable land in the Corona section.

ORANGE BABY IS SEVERELY SCALDED

John Fowler, two-year-old Orange baby, was severely burned about the face and chest early today when he toddled up to a kitchen table at this home and pulled a cup of boiling coffee over on him.

The baby was rushed to the Orange county hospital where it was said his burns were serious. The parents of the baby live at 315 North Harwood street, in Orange.

The Rev. E. W. Matz, below, pastor of the First Evangelical church, is the new president of the Santa Ana Ministerial union.

FILES PROTEST ON APPEAL OF TEACHER CASE

Declaring it is not a question affecting the tenure of other teachers in the state, and asserting that as a measure of economy the city school board would be justified in accepting the ruling of the superior court in the two teacher contract cases recently decided here against the board, a protest against taking an appeal to higher courts has been filed with the city board of education by A. G. Diehl, who has been active in affairs of the Civic League.

Diehl's statement to the board follows: "The newspaper reports of the recent mandamus suits brought by Bertha Briney and Lois Gould against the Santa Ana High school district and the members of the board of education, have erroneously carried the statement that the question involved was whether or not the elementary, high school and junior college districts of the city of Santa Ana comprised only one district, or whether each was a distinct and separate local entity, entirely independent from the other."

In the Briney case the action was brought only against the Santa Ana High school district, and it was stipulated by both sides that said Santa Ana High school district was a quasi-municipality, separate and distinct from the Santa Ana elementary school district; in the Gould case it was admitted by both sides that three distinct and separate school districts existed in the city of Santa Ana.

Not Affect Others. "The sole legal question involved in the Briney case was whether or not the high school board of the Santa Ana High school district had classified Miss Briney as a permanent teacher at the end of the school year 1930-1931, which the board was authorized to do under the law. The trial court found that she had been classified and was a permanent teacher, and no question regarding the number of districts existing in the city of Santa Ana was involved, nor any other question which would affect the tenure of any other teacher in the state of California will be determined by having the appellate or supreme court pass upon the case.

"In the Gould case the court found that Miss Gould could, under the law, establish permanent tenure in the elementary and high school districts at the same time, providing she taught a sufficient number of hours in each district, and that she had acquired a permanent tenure as a teacher in the Santa Ana High school district, and was entitled to employment as a permanent teacher in said district.

"Like the Briney case, there is no question involved in the Gould case which would affect the tenure of any other teacher in the state, and no legal points are at issue which would decide any other contract or case except that of Miss Gould.

Says Unnecessary Expense. "Both of these cases were given a fair trial before a competent and impartial judge from another county in the state, and we, as taxpayers of the city of Santa Ana, feel that the board of education, during these times of economic stress and hardship, should have any unnecessary expenditures, and that the moneys which would be used in appealing said cases, or either of them, could be put to better use in maintaining the schools of our city. In addition to the expense of an appeal in either of said cases, under the law these teachers, if successful, will be entitled to the payment of their salaries at the same rate as that paid them upon their last year's contracts, from the beginning of the school year, although the taxpayers will not be getting the benefit of their services, which would be the case if the decisions of the trial court are accepted as final and these teachers immediately allowed to return to their teaching duties. We are advised that it will take some time before these cases could be heard by the district court of appeal in the event an appeal is taken.

"We know that the taxpayers are vitally interested in how the board spends the people's money, and as long as the superior court has decided in favor of these teachers, we can see nothing to be gained by an appeal because the records show that the decisions in 30 per cent or more of the cases which are taken to the higher courts are sustained. As a measure of economy, we think the board would be justified in accepting the decision of the court, and the people would be more than satisfied to have the cases settled without any additional costs."

$24,000 YET TO BE RAISED IN CHEST DRIVE

An additional $24,000 must be pledged to the welfare and relief fund of the Community Chest during the next few days. If the necessary $52,000 campaign goal is to be approached, it was announced today at appeal headquarters, Third and Broadway streets.

"Reports from other communities are now coming into chest headquarters and they show that such cities are making their goals this year because citizens are acting promptly and recognizing the emergency situation to be cared for," W. J. Tway, Community Chest president, said today. "It is inconceivable that our citizens are less interested in the welfare and needs of our neighbors."

"Santa Ana simply will have to rid itself of the existing apathy if we are to make our goal. The entire trouble seems to be in the tendency in many directions, to put off action. Volunteers have been asked to make repeat calls up to five and six times on one individual or a single firm, and it is obviously unfair to continue such practice for these workers are giving their efforts without compensation and strictly to help do a job that is as much each citizen's responsibility as it is theirs."

Can Reach Goal.
"With only slightly over 1500 pledges thus far in as against around 3000 for last year, it is obvious that far too many persons have been holding off on making their subscriptions. The average pledge thus far is above that of former years and provided it can be held and a proper number of additional subscriptions are made."

there is no reason why we should not attain the goal."

An urgent appeal is being made for large subscriptions, firms and individuals who have not yet made their subscriptions to do so at once so that they can be recorded at the headquarters by Thursday of this week when large group meetings are to be held to check up on progress thus far.

Thursday morning the residential department workers, captains and vice chairmen will hold a general report meeting at Y. W. C. A. Late in the afternoon, the business department of the appeal will hold a like meeting at campaign headquarters.

By Wednesday night the establishment employee department, public employees division and utilities groups hope to have the bulk of their reports in. For this reason leaders have requested firm chairmen and other unit leaders to immediately clean up their work and get their returns in to campaign offices.

All Must Help
Unit vice chairmen of the advance gifts committee have announced that progress toward their necessary goal is being seriously handicapped due to the delay of a great many possible large donors not having yet made their pledge. Such persons are being especially asked to make their subscriptions at once, as their gifts will have a good deal to do with making up for the lagging of the campaign in the past.

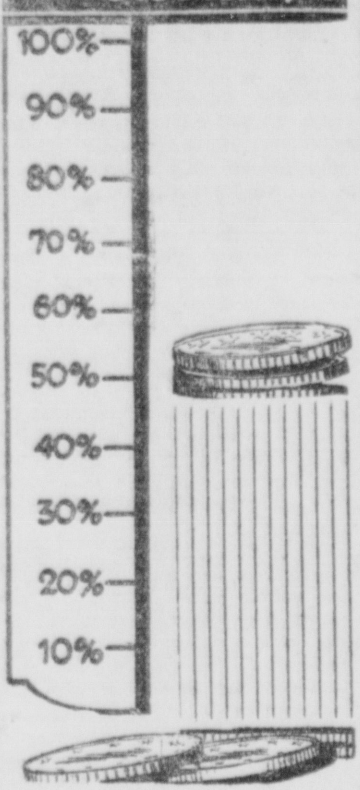

"This year there just is no way of avoiding the necessity of giving for welfare and relief," declared Tway. "Simply putting off the time of making a pledge is not going to make it possible to shift the responsibility, for we are all going to have to do our part."

The executive committee for the appeal declares that the campaign must be continued beyond the present week unless a marked change is shown during the balance of this week. The job is just about half done and it must be finished before it is allowed to close, leaders assert.

Persons who have not made their full possible subscription, are asked to not wait for another call from volunteers, but to send their pledges direct to Community Chest headquarters. When such pledges come in they will be credited to the proper department and workers in the campaign, it is said.

DECLARES COST OF DRINKING IS TOO HIGH

"Some people claim that liquor can be gotten any time, anywhere, and at the same time they complain of the high cost," said the Rev. Franklin Kinck, pastor of the Orange Christian church, during the W. C. T. U. broadcast over KREG today. "One statement is false. The law of supply and demand works there the same as anywhere else. Irving Fisher has shown that the price has increased three to seven times over the 1916 price. The conclusion must be that the supply is limited and therefore the price is high. 'Drinking does cost high in early deaths. In an early Egyptian tomb were found these words: 'His earthly body was shattered by wine, and his spirit departed before it was called.' Insurance companies have concluded that drink will cut off at least one-fifth of a man's life. Death usually comes earlier than normal when the person is a drinker, and yet some people would bring drinking back."

"Moreover, drinking does cost financially. The national drink bill before 1920 was two billion dollars. Some one had to pay that bill with money that could have been used for better purposes. A factory in Delaware reported that in 1907 six per cent of their employees were absent, while in 1929 only two and one-fourth per cent were absent. They accounted for the difference by the absence of drink. Lost days at a factory mean reduced pay checks, yet some people want to bring whiskey back."

"Again drinking demanded a high wage from the family. Sir Wilfred Grenfell writes, 'Alcohol has wrecked more lives, starved more children, and murdered more women than any other single factor.' J. C. Penney reports, 'One factory in Detroit before prohibition, had an average of 100 women every Monday morning waiting to get an advance on the week's check because Saturday's check never got past the saloon. Since prohibition the same factory has only had three women in several years.' Women and children pay the bill, and yet some people want alcoholic drinks back."

"Finally drinking is destructive of character. Listen to these close students of human life. Shakespeare, 'O thou invisible spirit of wine; if thou hast no name to be known by, let us call thee devil.' Chaucer, 'Character and shame depart when wine comes in.' The Bible, 'Drunkards shall not inherit the Kingdom of God.' These statements are true because drink brings a lowered will power with which to resist temptation, and yet some are calling for light wines and beer."

"Isn't the cost too high? For me it is. I shall vote 'No' on state propositions 1 and 2. I shall seek to vote for candidates who are dry. I shall fight to the last ditch the attempts of wealthy brewers to shove their burden back upon the working man."

NEW DISTRICT HOLDSELECTION OF 5 DIRECTORS

A last minute effort by friends of Augustus Thomas to write in his name failed to effect materially the five men whose names appeared on the ballot at the election of five directors for the newly organized South Coast County Water District at Coast Royal yesterday, and the slate prepared by a caucus of citizens of the five subdivisions in the district went over by a large vote. Of the 65 votes cast, Hallam Cooley, Three Arch Bay, received 56; Elmer L. Crawford, Coast Royal, 57; Russell M. Simmons, Aliso Vista, 58; Herbert M. Stapleton, Three Arches, 55, and Kirke M. Thompson, Egan Estate, 60. Twelve persons wrote in the name of Thomas.

The vote was to be canvassed today by the board of supervisors at Santa Ana, and then the directors will meet at a date specified by the board for organization. Col. M. B. Wellington, of Head, Wellington and Jacobs, Santa Ana, who has conducted the preliminaries, will assist in the organization of the board.

According to one of the newly elected officials, the first move will be to obtain a temporary supply of water for the district and an appeal will be made to the directors of the Laguna Beach County Water District for relief. Colonel Wellington also is attorney for the latter district.

The election officials were Jack C. Lasley, inspector; Mrs. Caroline W. O'Flaherty, judge, and Miss Helen S. Gray and Mrs. Edith S. Holt, clerks.

More than 125,000 horses are slaughtered for food under federal meat inspection every year. Most of this meat is exported.

Fine Spirit Reflected In Pledges

The fine spirit with which employees of the major firms of Santa Ana are meeting the emergency relief and welfare fund requirements is shown through the following letter from Bruce E. Switzer, superintendent, addressed to President W. J. Tway from the Rankin Dry Goods company.

"We are indeed happy to announce that the employees of the Rankin Dry Goods company have pledged to the 1932 Community Chest fund exactly 100 per cent. Not only did each individual employee give, but the amounts given bettered 1931 over five times and in some instances 10 times."

"We are indeed happy to have had a part in this splendid work and our sincere hope is that all organizations will come forward and make our drive a full success."

COUNTY DEMOCRATS MEET AT NEWPORT

Democrats of Orange county will rally to a meeting to be held in the Danceland hall in Newport Beach at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night to hear Col. W. S. Surman who will address the gathering. It was announced today from Democratic headquarters.

Local candidates will make brief addresses during the evening.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE FALL OF TICONDEROGA

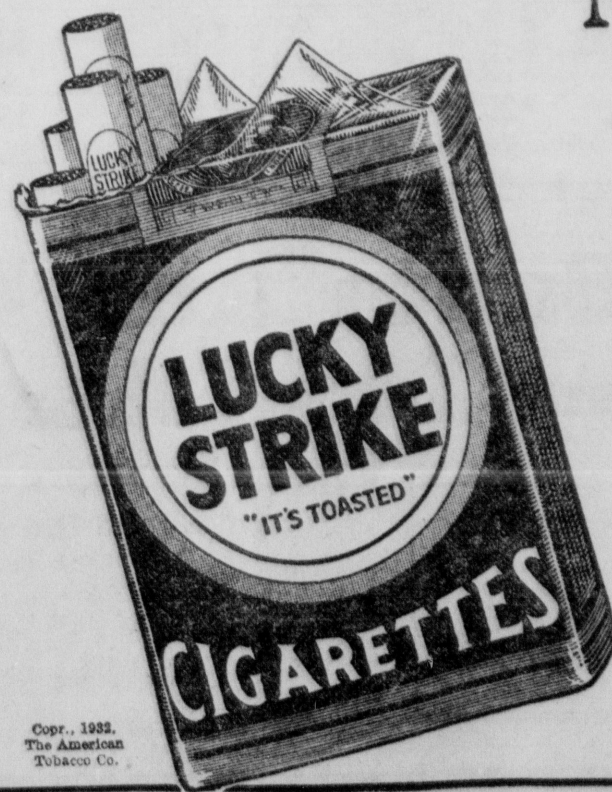

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by F. C. Yohn . . . inspired by that horror-filled dawn when the bloodthirsty savages fell on Ethan Allan's gallant "Green Mountain Boys" of Fort Ticonderoga fame. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

FILE SECOND COMPLAINT IN ANAHEIM CASE

Part of Anaheim's 1931 Halloween celebration will again be aired in superior court through the filing of a new damage action by Mrs. Jennie Shewbert and her husband John Shewbert for damages totaling $12,700 for injuries received when Mrs. Shewbert was dragged through the streets by an alleged intoxicated rider in the parade.

The new complaint names the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce and its officers and directors, El Rodeo Riding club and E. D. Griggs, a rider, as defendants. In the first complaint filed June 21, last the city of Anaheim and the city council as a group and individuals was included in the action. This case was dismissed August 8.

In both complaints Mrs. Shewbert demanded $7500 damages for injuries received when she was dragged through the streets at the end of a lariat held by Griggs. Shewbert is demanding $5000 for the loss of his wife's society and comfort during the time she was suffering from her injuries and $200 expended in doctors' bills.

According to the complaints, the Shewberts were standing on one of the principal streets of Anaheim on Halloween night watching the parade that was the principal feature of the celebration. Griggs, it is alleged was one of the mounted men in the contingent of riders sponsored by the El Rodeo Riding club.

Griggs, according to the complaint, was under the influence of liquor and when he passed the point where Mr. and Mrs. Shewbert were standing he threw his lariat, caught Mrs. Shewbert about the body and dragged her down the street despite her screams and the shouts of her husband and other spectators.

It is alleged that Mrs. Shewbert could not free herself and fell when she collided with a truck parked at the sidewalk. Griggs, it is alleged continued to drag her until halted by spectators.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON

By Paul Mallon

STERLING

Britain is in a bad spot. Her business men are sad. Their optimism nowhere near matches ours. Neither do their prospects. This is the story behind the unpepping of the pound sterling.

Our best financial authorities confidently say they think the British did not have enough gold to hold on. They would like to believe that it was a shrewd step toward restoration of the gold standard. That is the story being spread for those willing to believe it.

The real prospect now is Britain may have to postpone a return to gold. Certainly the step will not be undertaken until after the world economic conference. She will use her non-gold position as a trading edge in that meeting.

The pound meanwhile will be permitted to seek its own level. It is true that such a maneuver is necessary before she can return to gold. It is untrue that she planned it as such.

The boys at the top here smell a war debt mouse in the deal. She must pay in dollars or gold. If she did not have the money before, she certainly will now be able to get it now. Her payment would cost her twice as much since the sterling slump. The pound now will buy fewer dollars and gold.

Her present position will be a fine argument for a further moratorium or postponement.

DEBTS

The absurd propaganda that our European debtors are getting ready to pay continues unabated. Most of it comes out of Paris. That capital is almost as adept as Tokyo as a producer of cooked news.

This latest unofficial announcement that the French would pay came last Wednesday. On Thursday Herriot explained locally he did not mean they would pay the "political" debt to us, but only the "actual" borrowing.

The next day they gave out the French budget for next year. It contained no provision for payment of the debt.

Another investigation of war debts is quietly underway. It is being conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Members of the chamber are being polled. A committee headed by Silas Strawn is looking for ways and means.

Anyone who thinks this report will favor collection or default can go to the foot of the class. Its report will be ready after the election. So will the report of the New York crowd of investigators. Together they will furnish tremendous pressure for some satisfactory settlement on a business basis.

SUSPENSE

The R. F. C. has locked up the money bags until after the election. It does not want to do anything that will have a political influence. Reports from California are that the San Francisco bridge authorization helped the Republican cause out there. Democrats on the board do not want to do anything like that now.

This probably is the dominant reason why the Chinese wheat deal has been held up. It may be authorized soon after election.

AIR

That certain radio chain which showed earlier pro-Hoover tendencies appears to have partially relented. A prominent Democratic politician has been made vice president of the concern. Earlier tactics have been stopped, temporarily at least.

It would not make much difference anyway as its competing chain has since developed pro-Roosevelt tendencies. That would make it all even as far as the public is concerned. As it stands at the moment Roosevelt probably has an edge.

There is another point in Mr. Phillips Petroleum is the latest important move to the share-the-work idea. This company will adopt the shorter week in every department on November first.

Negotiations leading to adoption of the shorter week by a group of banks have progressed to the point where an important announcement can be expected in the near future.

Wall Street clerks who know their jobs are safe are lucky.

Hoover's favor, however. A presidential is never out of. This is a federal radio commission rule. The Republicans pay for full time employment on campaign speeches at straight rates for time under this rule, without penalties. The Democrats claim they would have to pay penalties for cancelling programs of commercial advertisers if they worked under such an arrangement. The cost would be prohibitive.

OUT

Some new swearing broke out in high places here when they heard about Montague Norman's recent pessimistic statement.

His confession that the depression was too much for him was admitted by those to be true. They say the depression has been too much for Norman from the start. Their grapevine reports Mr. Norman is shortly to be relieved of his domination of the Bank of England. That job also has been too much for him.

The inference is clear that Prof. Skinner may shortly be sent to the cleaners. That will cause no grief in the highest quarters of these parts.

DRIVE

Wear and tear of super-human campaigning are becoming more and more noticeable on Mr. Hoover.

It develops now his voice became so weakened through the Cleveland speech that the amplifiers had to be stepped-up several notches. Otherwise he could not have been heard. Unimpaired by that experience he took on a man-killing schedule for Detroit. Fourteen station appearances were arranged prior to delivery of his night speech.

His doctor was ordered to stay close by.

NOTES

Britain's flight into inflation has not hurt us nearly so much as we thought it would at the start. Too many other things happened to our foreign trade to make that an important factor in its decline.

Stories out of London that the British have saved up some dollar balances to make debt payments appear to be only partially true. Our people will wait until they see the money before they will believe it is coming.

The best thing to do on war debts is to shut your eyes and ears until after election. You will neither hear nor see anything but hokum until then. A certain official of the Republican campaign organization has filed a private application with the internal revenue bureau for a license to practice as tax attorney after the election. The application probably will not be granted because he has not been out of the government service three years as required by law.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

BONUS

Roosevelt's bonus line in his Pittsburgh speech is rated Democratically as one of the smartest bits of political strategy in the whole campaign.

Some of the candidate's advisers had been urging him to speak out in explicit detail. But Roosevelt declined to be stampeded by these counsels. His idea—as explained by his friends here—was to pay no attention to the onslaughts of Republican campaign speakers but to hold his fire until one of the opposition big shots—Hoover or Coolidge—should accuse him of having evaded the issue.

This patience worked out beautifully. Coolidge gave him the opening he wanted by saying that his silence on the subject was regarding recovery. The governor's rejoinder was made exactly as planned.

Impartial observers in the financial district consider the Democratic stand on the bonus payment as spiritually akin to the Republican on prohibition. Those who want the bonus are given a false hope that the payment may still come through just as the drys are given a similar hope that repeal can somehow be headed off. But there is now confidence that the payoff is checked for a long time to come whoever is president.

ROOSEVELT

The most popular angle of the Pittsburgh speech locally was Roosevelt's advocacy of a beer tax. New York is fully convinced that that would ease burdens in many directions.

The most criticized part of the speech was the reference to slashing the national budget by 25 per cent. This is viewed as misleading in that 25 per cent reduction in the running expenses of the government would only amount to about 200 million dollars or less than five per cent of the total national expenditures. Nothing beyond this is possible unless appropriations are slashed.

Shrewd financial men understand that Roosevelt is privately in favor of a drastic reduction in payments to veterans not disabled in the service but has kept his own counsel for political reasons.

KICKBACK

The home loan bank recently established in Newark is causing political repercussions which are not helping the campaign. There have been many applications but very few loans and disappointed would-be borrowers are telling the world that the bank is a snare and a delusion so far as getting relief is concerned. Local Hearst papers are helping to spread the tales of woe.

JOBS

Phillips Petroleum is the latest important move to the share-the-work idea. This company will adopt the shorter week in every department on November first.

Negotiations leading to adoption of the shorter week by a group of banks have progressed to the point where an important announcement can be expected in the near future.

HIGH SUMMER

by Booth Tarkington

SYNOPSIS FOR PRECEDING INSTALLMENTS

The Endertons were the leaders of the cottage colony at a fashionable New England seashore resort and the Brendies had about won second place. Mrs. Wheat, colored and expansive who presided in the Brendie kitchen, could not understand the unappreciative New England attitude of Ambrose Trainband about the "ice cream folks" having a very "high summer." Mrs. Enderton had just graduated from college and when he smugly resumed his position in the colony, Mrs. Enderton's intimate friend, Brenda, that she favored his engagement to Kitty Brendie. She got her husband to resign, though with Kitty and her family on probation, at least until the following season. Kitty, a young girl, had been happy until Joe Nuttall suddenly developed a violent case of young love and accused her of "voiding him and his family." For a time she tried to avoid young Enderton. When Melroy Brendie, 14, returned from boarding school, he asked Mr. Brendie to call him Bull. He induced his parents to buy him a automobile and soon was very proud of his court record, which included charges of driving, although under legal age, of speeding and of resisting an officer. The Brendies closed the season with a brilliant dance at the Beach Club. The theme of the 29 market crash, and Abah Smith, a friend of Mr. Trainband, brought back bad news after a week in the Brendie home city in the Middle West.

late opening of the Brendie cottage, he responded simply, "Let 'em come!" For by this time he felt himself prepared for any interview that might be in store for him on the subject of flower beds, their planting and weeding. In his mind he had rehearsed over and over what he would say.

Mr. Trainband's slow steps, approaching the plank path that led away from the village, stopped all together. His bluish eyes opened and opened, became protuberant with his staring.

A short distance before him a sagging old wharf projected into a tidal inlet from the sea, and against its weedy and encrusted side, snuggled several fishing boats of uncouth but able appearance. At work putting things to rights in one of the larger boats, was a sturdy boy of fifteen well known to Mr. Trainband as Chid Hillbane, the son of an acquaintance who fished professionally. Another boy, a weedy boy, apparently of about the same age, stood upon the edge of the wharf looking down, watching the work, and it was he who entranced the vegetable gardener.

He was not a well-dressed boy, though his plain garb would have given a better effect if his person had not been engaged, obviously in so rapid a perpendicular growth that a given amount of inelastic cloth could not hope to cover him long. Then, too, his scant gray trousers were bulbous at the knee; his sweater was a winter-faded brown; his russet shoes were weatherworn. When he spoke, as presently he did, addressing young Mr. Hillbane, his voice betrayed him to even unassuming listeners as adolescent; there were notes in it suggesting a duet. Neither the baritone nor the falsetto that composed these notes had ever before been heard by Ambrose Trainband; yet in the voice, as about the voice, as about the youth's fair head, there was something that stirred dreary memories—something unpalatably familiar.

"You goin' out fishin' in that boat?" it said.

Chid Hillbane glanced briefly upward out of the side of his eye, continued his work, and after a time, replied austere, "Ben."

"When?" asked the boy on the wharf.

"Want out at three o'clock this mornin'?"

"What'd you catch?"

"Six hundred pound o'cod. Some pollock."

"Do you run that boat yourself?" asked the boy on the wharf.

"None."

"Who does?"

"Me and father."

"Does he pay you a salary?"

Chid, still engaged with his chore, gave another side glance upward, and perhaps thinking the question intrusive, delayed his reply. Finally, however, he spoke.

"Some."

"Well, what I mean—" The boy on the wharf paused, swallowed, seemed to summon his resources for the proper expression of "Yes."

"What I mean: Do you ever goin' out fishin' is as good a way as any to make a livin'?"

"What?"

"When I mean: S'pose fr instance I decided to go into it as a party good way of makin' money, do you think frinstance your father—What I mean, listen: Do you think—I mean: S'pose fr instance I decided to learn the fish business and began tomorrow mornin' at three o'clock in that boat with him and you, would he be party likely to pay me a salary right from the start, say, or would he expect me to work a while gettin' the hang of it before it began?"

"Before what began?"

"Why, my salary?"

At this, young Mr. Hillbane straightened his back and stood staring up at the other boy for several interrogative moments.

"Look!" he said. "Isn't your name Melroy Brendie or somethin'?"

"Yes, 'tis," this strange Melroy replied. "What I mean, listen!" He let himself down over the edge of the wharf, dropped into the boat, and seated himself unfastidiously upon the scaly bottom of an up-turned bucket. Thereafter, however, as the participants were close to each other and upon the same level, the conversation was no longer heard by Mr. Trainband.

APPLICATIONS TO BE TAKEN ON RIVER JOB

Applications from Santa Ana, Anaheim and Fullerton residents for engineering and clerical jobs on the Colorado river aqueduct project at the offices of the Metropolitan Water District in Los Angeles, Frank E. Weymouth, general manager and chief engineer announced today.

However, it will be several weeks before applications for the various classes of skilled and unskilled labor will be acceptable, or until the district determines if construction is to be done by contracting or by forces directly employed by the district.

Applicants for employment must submit proof that they are now and have been for at least one year past residents of one of the 13 cities composing the district of which the three Orange county cities are members.

The district board of directors now is advertising for bids on the headquarters building which will be constructed at Banning and for the power line which will run from Colton to all points along the line of construction.

Colonel S. H. Finley, Santa Ana's director on the board, said today that work will be started on the above named projects within 30 days. Bids on the 15-mile San Jacinto tunnel which will take six and a half years for completion are to be opened on November 19.

It is doubtful if many Santa Ana men will get employment in the immediate future, Colonel Finley said, because there are many small cities that have had none of their allotted percentage of employment while Santa Ana has its quota engaged on engineering and other work.

There is little doubt, however, but that every man qualified to work on the tunnel job will be given work, he said.

'ON TO SAN DIEGO' SAINT CRY Hornsby Signs With St. Louis Cards

RAJAH TO JOIN PLAYER RANKS FOR ONE YEAR

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Rogers Hornsby, deposed as manager of the Chicago Cubs last August, has signed a one-year player contract with the St. Louis Cardinals. President Sam Breadon announced today.

The contract provides that at the close of the 1932 season Breadon will be given his unconditional release and thereafter will be free to sell his services to the highest bidder, subject to the rules of the National League.

Hornsby's salary was not announced, but was understood to be nominal, for the man who once turned down a $50,000 a year offer from Breadon after he led the Cardinals to a world's championship in 1926.

"The Rajah" believes that at the age of 37 he can come back as a major league star, Breadon said. "He believes he still is a great player. We think he will help us win the pennant next year. That is why we are signing him."

Breadon denied Hornsby was being given "any consideration as a possible manager of the club" or future successor of "Gibby" Street, the present manager.

Hornsby comes back as a player in the ranks to the club with which he rose from obscurity to the pinnacle of baseball fame—a club that sent him away as a climax of a bitter quarrel over salary after he had won a world's championship for the Cardinals.

He was traded to the New York Giants for Frankie Fritsch and Pitcher Jimmy Ring.

Strength Of Reserves Is Irish Secret

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 25.—After watching Notre Dame mow down Drake 62 to 0 recently, observers hit on the idea that the secret of the team's power rested in its reserves.

During the game the Irish played three left ends, three left tackles, four left guards, three centers, four right guards, three right tackles, three right ends, five quarterbacks, four left halfbacks, four right halfbacks and four fullbacks.

And Drake couldn't stop any of them.

W. C. FLETCHER MEDALIST FOR GOLF TOURNEY

With an aggregate of 158 for 36 holes, Warren C. Fletcher was medalist for the eighth annual Santa Ana Country club championship golf tournament which gets under way this week.

Exactly 90 players—16 for the championship flight and 22 for the first and second flights—qualified for the renewal of the Newport tournament.

Fletcher was three strokes under the second qualifier, E. Pennington, M. N. Thompson and L. W. Bemis, who tied at 161 each. Followed L. D. Coffing and J. K. McDonald, 162; L. H. Robinson, W. W. Foote and B. V. Curry, 163; A. W. Robinson, Jack Meiss and E. E. Wilson, 164; J. R. Huber, 166, and C. R. Furr and D. E. Liggett, 167.

Ed Holmes, five times champion of the club, who this year defended his title against the strongest field in the history of the tournament, was excused from the qualifying round. Holmes draws a dangerous competitor in his first round, meeting W. W. (Bill) Foote, high school athletic coach, who is usually in the seventies.

COVINA WINS COURT BATTLE WITH C. I. F.

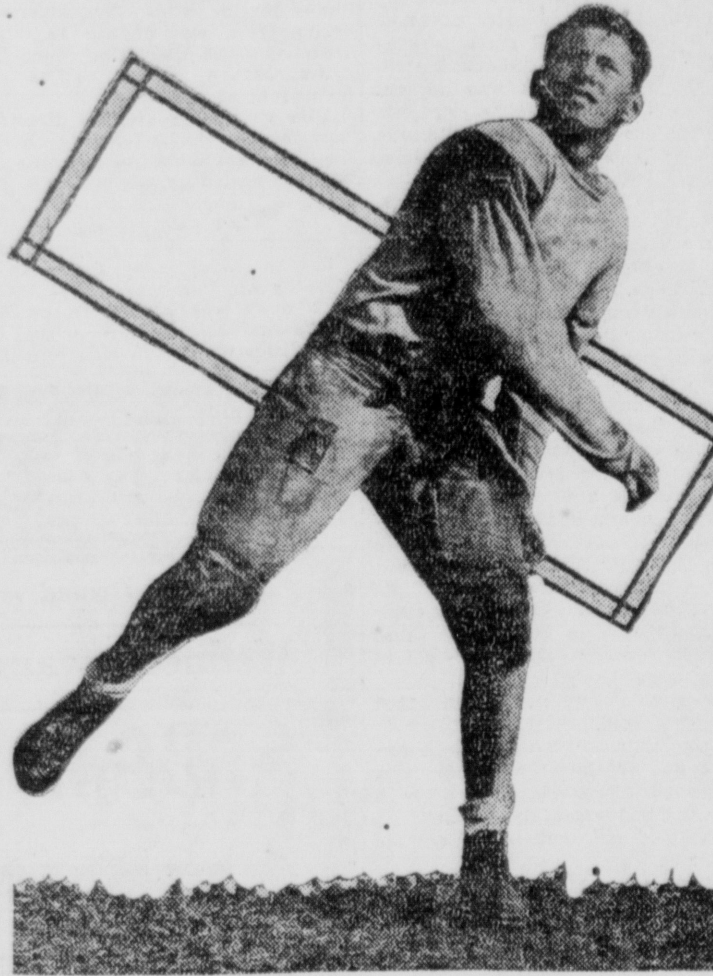

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Covina high school had been victorious today in its court fight to obtain readmission to the California Interscholastic federation. Southern section. Superior Judge Irving Taplin yesterday ordered Covina reinstated, supporting the school's contention that its eviction prevented it from engaging in interscholastic sports.

Covina was barred from the federation because of its alleged refusal to donate to the Olympic Games Committee proceeds of two football games in which an eligible player participated.

GODFREY STOPS FAY
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—(UP)—George Godfrey, huge Philadelphia Negro who quit the ring last year to become a wrestler, returned to the boxing game last night and scored a technical eight-round knockout over Al Fay of Cherlerio, Pa., in their scheduled 10-round bout.

THROWN FROM THE HILLTOP

Doubting its ability to penetrate Santa Ana's powerful line, the comparatively light San Diego Hi football team is quietly preparing a brand new aerial attack for Coach "Tex" Oliver's Saints this week. And here is one of the "pony backs" who operates the Hilltop passes, Quarterback Leonard Murray. Mr. Murray will be remembered by track and field fans for he is one of the best prep half-milers in the state.

RIVERSIDE NOW OBJECTIVE OF COOK'S DONS

Although Chaffey, Citrus and Fullerton, too, remain on Santa Ana junior college's 1932 football schedule, Bill Cook was of the opinion today that Jess Mortenson's Riverside Tigers will furnish the season's major competition for his Dons. The Santa Ana-Riverside tilt, throwing more light on the spirited championship race, will be played at Riverside Saturday afternoon.

Once past the Tigers, Santa Ana has more than a 50-50 chance to finish at the top of the Orange Empire conference, Cook believes. Fresh from an 18 to 13 victory over powerful Little Citrus, Riverside has shown that it has just about hit its stride. The Tigers, defeated by Pomona 12-6, realize that another loss virtually eliminates them from the league race.

They also seem little worried over the fact that Santa Ana holds a 24-13 victory over them in 1927, a 12-0 count in 1928 and a 13-0 victory last season. Past records give Santa Ana the edge Saturday, but past records mean nothing in football.

Riverside Line Hefty
Riverside is strong, clever and determined. A line averaging close to 190 pounds tremendously aids a well-balanced backfield which showed its strength by scoring three touchdowns against the Citrus Owls, winners over Chaffey, 12 to 6, the preceding week.

The Tigers already have what Santa Ana must develop this week—sufficient drive. Lack of it limited the Dons to a 14 to 6 victory over Pomona. With drive last Saturday, Santa Ana could have scored at least five touchdowns, since the Dons were in scoring territory seven times.

Santa Ana's defense showed improvement, and promises to be in first-class condition for the Riverside tilt.

COCHET SAYS VINES
GREATEST NET STAR
PARIS, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Henri Cochet, writing for the Paris sportsman, Match, today praised Ellsworth Vines of California as the world's greatest tennis player on grass or hard courts. Cochet, however, believes that Vines can be beaten through his one outstanding weakness, play on low volleys which oblige Vines to bend his knees.

Cochet estimates Vines has the exact height to permit perfect play with the least possible percentage of netted balls, whereas Bill Tilden is "too tall" and Cochet himself is "too small."

Saulsberry City's New Golf Queen

A title twice denied her when she seemed on the verge of success was in the possession of Mary Saulsberry at last today. Miss Saulsberry is the new women's golf champion of the Santa Ana Country club, having defeated Fay Talbert, 5 and 3, in the final round of the club's annual championship tournament.

The finals were played over the 18-hole route. Miss Saulsberry carded 92, Mrs. Talbert 97. Both had several bad holes, mostly due to poor putting.

The first four holes were hard.

Miss Saulsberry won the fifth, sixth and seventh with par figures, but Mrs. Talbert rallied to take the eighth and ninth to be only one down at the end of the first nine.

Miss Saulsberry then won five out of the next six holes and ended the match on the 18th green, after Mrs. Talbert again had trouble with her putter.

ALHAMBRA TO COMPLETE 1932 GRID SCHEDULE

Alhambra high school will complete its 1932 Coast Preparatory league football schedule—which calls for a game with Santa Ana November 11—despite the death of Bob Houtz, star halfback, who suffered fatal injuries in a game with the Southern California Freshmen last Saturday.

This decision was officially announced today following a meeting of the Alhambra board of education which conducted an inquiry yesterday.

Houtz was hurt on the third play of the second half. Harold Bishop, Trobabe fullback, carried the ball on a plunge off tackle. Ward Stockton, Moor guard, hit him but failed to stop Bishop, listed on the Trojan football roster as a 184-pounder.

Houtz failed to arise and Dr. Ralph A. Hix, osteopath physician, in attendance at the football field, moved the boy from the game. Houtz was taken to the Alhambra Emergency hospital and later removed to the Alhambra hospital, where he died at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, from a broken neck and a severed spinal cord.

Among those who testified at the board of education inquiry was Willis O. Hunter, director of athletics at U. S. C. and member of the National Football Rules committee.

Hunter told the board that, while it is not common practice on the Pacific Coast, it is customary in the Mid-West and East to schedule college freshmen football competition for high school elevens.

He said that it was better for boys to play against others of their own physical standards, but said that he did not believe the two teams in the local game were unreasonably overmatched, especially in view of the fact that the Trojan freshmen were told not to

OLIVER ORDERS SECRET DRILL FOR BIG GAME

"On to San Diego"—That trite, hackneyed phrase was still good today at Santa Ana Hi where Coach "Tex" Oliver's Saints began work behind closed doors for Saturday's invasion of San Diego and a game that probably decides the 1932 Coast Preparatory league football championship.

The past and future have been completely buried and forgotten in the current "digging" for Saint that will frustrate San Diego speed in the new season's climactic prep contest.

For the first time in many years, perhaps for the first time in the long history of Santa Ana-San Diego football meetings, Santa Ana will have the bulge in size Saturday afternoon, and it is no secret around Poly field that Oliver will try to make the most of this alleged advantage. Santa Diego's ball club is smaller than usual this year, only the Hilltop tackles approaching the size of the young giants who wore Gray Castle's spangles in past years.

Hilltop Backs Fast
But the San Diego backs, "Mushy" Pollock, Leonard Murray, Dave Arnett and "Jazz" Morris, are all exceptionally fast so if San Diego has sacrificed power for speed, it gained speed galore, at least. Pollock, Murray and Morris were all members of San Diego's champion quarter-mile relay team of 1931.

Santa Ana's preparation for the Hilltoppers will be spread on all week with the utmost secrecy. Canvases will be carried about the field and guards will show away those who do not have some direct business with the Saint football machine.

Oliver plans this week three important operations: (1) Practice on several plays which the Saints have not used to date; (2) Certain changes in his offensive system about which he refuses to elaborate, and (3) Drill against San Diego's "spaghetti" shift, in other words the Howard Jones power-play movement which the Trojan coach introduced last year.

In the last connection the Saints were scheduled to work today against Bill Cook's Santa Ana Dons who employ the Jones system. The Saints will not scrimmage the Dons but will scrutinize their formations at close range.

May Change Lineup Again
Most intriguing to the follower of Saint football fortunes is the alterations Oliver proposes in his attack, with which he frankly states he is not yet satisfied, even after Santa Ana's 19-0 decision over Pasadena last Friday. Whether the Saint mentor plans to revamp again his backfield was not disclosed, nor was he prepared to comment on reports that he will use in the backfield simultaneously all his "power houses." Santa Ana will not know about these things until kickoff time in the San Diego stadium Saturday.

Oliver finally refuses to discuss his battle plans.

The Saint coach admitted, however, that his men are "almost all" in "good physical condition, and offer its best game of the 1932 season if the coaching staff knows anything about it."

Right End Jack Mitchell, who went out of the Pasadena game with a shoulder injury, is expected to be ready again Saturday. He is the only Saint cripple except Left Tackle "Big Boy" Williams, who twisted his ankle over the week end.

"I'm not worrying about Mitchell," Oliver said. "That boy has spirit and he'll play because he knows we need him."

Linemen Still Starring
Oliver thought his team was pretty sloppy against Pasadena but he was pleased with the continued strong play of his surprising line in general and that of Tackles Willard Noe and Fred Devenney in particular. Conrad's blocking was improved too, he thought, and that was a good sign because Conrad will be expected to do some real blocking at San Diego.

Santa Ana and San Diego are the only undefeated teams in the conference, although the Saints were tied by Long Beach. The standings:

HOOKS and SLIDES by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Those pictures of Stagg... hauntingly... to go easy and let Ketchel make a favorable showing... the sudden lashing out of Ketchel's fist, as a golden opportunity presented itself... and Johnson... grinning with fury... coming back into the battle... and knocking Ketchel cold with a vengeful punch... after the fight in Johnson's dressing room... plucking Ketchel's front teeth out of Jack Johnson's glove... now, Johnson earning his living as host in roadhouses and night clubs... and clowning in front of a jazz orchestra.

THE BURDEN OF YEARS
Too old... Benny Leonard... sobbing in the arms of Referee Donovan... after Jimmy McLarnin's swishing gloves had brought back to the old man the burden of his years... Tommy Loughran... insisting that he could carry on a while longer... after he had been knocked out by men who couldn't have laid a glove on him a few years earlier... and Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, in their last tragic year of baseball at Philadelphia... stumbling around in the outfield... pretending that they still had all the qualities that made them the greatest players in the game years before... too old!

It comes to all of us... Stagg and Dempsey and Willard and Johnson and Leonard and Cobb and Speaker... age inevitably dims the fire of greatness.

Stagg, in his dreams can see the great Eckersall... streaking down the field... Dempsey can see Firpo falling to the canvas under a shower of blows... Corbett can see old John L. unable to rise... Johnson can see Jim Jeffries, the white man's champion, bowed under the weight of years and Johnson's own destructive blows... Benny Leonard can look back, too... and in his reminiscences see Lew Teller beaten just as he was about to crush the great Leonard, one of the finest lightweights that ever lived.

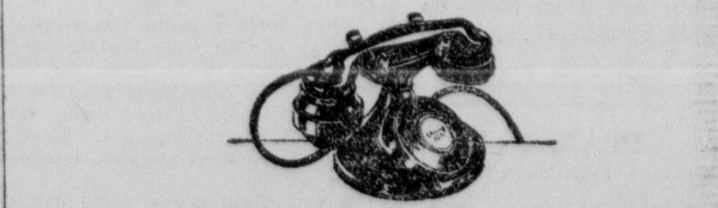

And Cobb and Speaker can look back to days of brave deeds. But now, too old... never mind, Stagg... it comes to us all.

ASKS $5000 FOR AUTO CRASH HURTS

As an aftermath of an accident September 25, last, in which one man was fatally injured and another received serious injuries, Clyde Blodgett, Bellflower, filed suit for $5000 damages against Mr. and Mrs. John Lee. Blodgett was fatally injured in the accident which took the life of Harry McLane, also of Bellflower. According to the complaint Blodgett was riding in a trailer attached to an automobile driven by D. R. Conrad, also of Bellflower. The machine was traveling toward Bellflower along Ocean avenue. Two miles west of Garden Grove, as the machine was passing the Lee place Mrs. Lee drove her automobile from a private driveway into the path of the Conrad machine.

Attempting to avoid a collision Conrad turned his machine off the highway. The trailer on which Blodgett was riding struck loose sand at the edge of the highway and swung into a telephone pole. Blodgett received injuries about the head, limbs and body that have prevented him from working since the crash.

LONG TERM SET FOR WOULD-BE BIG GANGSTER

Gordon Stockton, Wintersburg youth who held up the Jack Pannell service station at Tustin last June and later confided to his attorney that he had ambitions of becoming a "great gangster" and wanted to go to San Quentin to "learn a few tricks" will serve eight and one-half years in San Quentin. County Clerk J. M. Backs was notified yesterday that the prison parole board had set the Orange county youth's sentence.

Stockton, who had been farming for his mother near Wintersburg, was arrested on July 16 for the holdup of the Pannell service station. He was arraigned on July 31 and entered a plea of not guilty. His trial was set for August 26 but on August 7 he appeared before Superior Judge James L. Allen and withdrew his plea of not guilty entering a plea of guilty to second degree robbery. The lesser charge was permitted when he told the court that the gun used in the holdup was not loaded.

Stockton told the court that he did not want the $34 secured in the holdup but had merely committed the crime to make his sweetheart think. He said that they had quarreled a short time before the robbery and he decided on the crime as a vent for his anger. He applied for probation which was denied and sentence passed on August 21.

According to a statement to the court by Joel B. Ogle, attorney for the youth he is alleged to have told of his vision of becoming a great gangster and said that he would like to go to San Quentin and get a few pointers as "people around here don't know so much."

In a statement to the parole board Judge Allen and District Attorney Sam Collins, through Deputy District Attorney Leo B. Fris, recommended that Stockton be held in prison until he learned the lesson that a life of crime does not pay.

BIGGEST

There it is—the biggest office building in the world! This picture was taken as the last girder was placed atop the central structure of the $250,000,000 Rockefeller Center development in New York. Seventy stories, and more than 800 feet in height, it is not the tallest skyscraper but has the most office space.

5000 REQUESTS SUBMITTED FOR HOME LOANS

The majority of the applications for loans received by the Federal Home Loan Bank at Los Angeles are beyond the province of the bank, officials stated today. In summarizing the bank's activities during its first week of operation, More than 5000 loan requests from individuals in California, Arizona and Nevada, have been received thus far, and in many cases loans are requested which almost equal the present day appraised value of property offered as collateral.

Loan applications from home financing agencies throughout the district are beginning to arrive at the bank's headquarters. As this type of application grows in volume the real beneficial effects of the bank's operation will begin to be felt, according to C. H. Wade, Los Angeles, president.

Misunderstanding on the part of individual home owners is ascribed as the reason for loan requests beyond the scope of the bank. The Federal Home Loan Bank, it is pointed out, can make loans on home property of not more than $20,000 present day appraised value and can loan up to 40 per cent of the present day appraised value of homes. Construction loans or advances on vacant lots, apartment houses, farm acreage and business properties do not come within the province of the bank.

All applications received are being given careful consideration by bank officials and requests for information are answered by letter with an official application blank enclosed. Building and loan associations, banks and other lending agencies in many cities are cooperating by passing out formal application blanks and issuing instructions to borrowers as to the scope of the new bank's lending abilities.

Santa Ana pyramid No. 41, Ancient Egyptian Order of Scots, will send its drum corps, of which Robert O. Grover, 1227 South Main street, is manager, to the great Scots' motion picture electrical parade "Rainbow of Dreams" to be given in Long Beach, the night of November 4 as the main highlight of the Scots' supreme pyramid session.

The Santa Ana musical organization will be spotted to lead one of the brilliantly illuminated floats, which will move in the procession as an entry of a prominent motion picture studio.

The parade is scheduled to take place on the Long Beach rainbow pier.

Cypress Home Is Scene Of Party

CYPRESS, Oct. 25.—Miss Evelyn Fitzgerald was honoree at a surprise party on her 18th birthday, the affair being given by her mother, Mrs. J. N. Fitzgerald, at their home on Bishop street.

The evening was spent in playing bridge and dancing, after which a delicious buffet supper was served. Places were set for Hilbert Craig, Hugo Anderson, Henry Keifer and John Shea and the Misses Frieda Priddy, Margaret Shea, Elva Hamler, Georgia Rae Fitzgerald, the honoree, Miss Evelyn Fitzgerald and Mrs. Fitzgerald, the hostess.

IN CRISIS

The financial fate of New York largely rests with these two men, Charles E. Mitchell (top), as spokesman for bankers from whom the city seeks a $35,000,000 loan to meet immediate debts, has demanded that City Controller Charles W. Berry (below) slash $100,000,000 from the city budget.

STATE C. OF C. OPPOSES BEACH OIL DRILLING

When personal representatives of both the proponents and opponents of Proposition Number 11, appearing on the November ballot, appeared before the annual state-wide meeting of the California State Chamber of Commerce, at San Francisco, every possible argument and every possible fact was brought to light in the effort to secure their asking and support of this representative body.

At this meeting was a cross section of the state, being attended by more than 1000 civic and commercial leaders representing every section of the state and all lines of business endeavor, their final decision has great significance, it is stated.

Basing their decision upon previous study of the question, as well as facts presented, the board of directors passed the following resolution:

"Because our beaches at this time bear far greater importance to the economic welfare of this state than just another oil field; because our beaches from a recreational standpoint must be considered one of California's greatest assets, and because there is a plentitude of oil now being secured from privately operated and owned oil fields without depleting at this time our state reserve which, in this instance, is estimated at over 100,000,000 barrels, and because of the fact that the one-twelfth royalty as provided in Proposition Number 11 is totally inadequate as the state's share, we vigorously oppose this measure and urge the voters of this state to assist in defeating this measure."

Anniversary to Be Observed By Furniture Store

Celebrating the fourth anniversary since L. A. Dickey purchased his partner's interest in the Dickey Furniture store, located at the corner of Fourth and Spurgeon streets, the store will stage an anniversary sale beginning Thursday.

Dickey is considered one of the oldest furniture dealers in Santa Ana, it is said, as he started business here with his father at the corner of Third and Main streets in 1912.

Dickey believes that the so-called depression is now over. People are feeling much better and are spending more freely than they have in months, he declared. Many of the large furniture manufacturers are working a full force and many of the factories in the east are adding men to their forces and are working full time, he pointed out.

ELECTRICITY
Costs Less Than 1 2/10 %
of the Family Budget

U. S. LABOR STATISTICS report the following typical items in the annual budget for an American family in average circumstances:

Food	$840	Furniture	$125
Housing	$475	Miscellaneous,
Clothing	$412	Savings, etc.	$138
Auto	$477	Electricity	$ 33

In Edison territory, however, the cost of electricity is even lower . . . only $29.50 per year for almost a half million families of all classes. This average includes the 30,000 homes which cook electrically. It covers the use of electricity for lighting, refrigeration, water heating, space heating, washing, ironing, sweeping and numerous other services.

To be exact, less than 1.2 per cent of the family budget is all that Edison customers spend to operate all of these electrical conveniences.

H. B. Republicans In Rally Friday

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 25.—A Republican rally and dinner will be held at Memorial hall Friday night at 6:30 o'clock. The general public is cordially invited.

High Tariff and How To Get It

What the Citrus Grower and Oil Worker Should Keep in Mind

They should remember, first that B. Z. McKinney, Democratic candidate for Congress, stands squarely for a high farm tariff and an oil tariff that will restore prosperity to that industry and its workers.

They should remember, further, that the next Congress will be under Democratic control, regardless of who becomes the next president. Also, that Congress decides the tariff issue.

Holding these facts in mind, it instantly becomes clear that the congressman from this district who has the best chance—in fact, the only chance—to get the tariff protection that this district needs, must come from the Democratic party.

His party, in control of Congress and tariff legislation, will give him the cooperation and favor that a Republican congressman would not receive from a Democratic congress, any more than a Republican congress would show favor to a Democratic member. These are simple matters of practical politics, known to all.

McKinney will demand retention of the present tariff rates on citrus and other farm products; also a tariff on oil. What is more to the point, he will get them.

The Republican candidate for Congress, if elected, would get—only what a Democratic Congress saw fit to give him. You can imagine just how much that would be. You could put it in your eye.

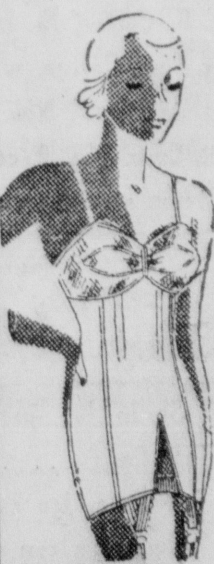

So, if citrus growers and oil workers expect to get tariff protection, they must elect the only candidate for Congress who can get it for them. That Man is—

Files Suit To Compel Issuance Of Taxi License

VALIDITY OF CITY ORDINANCE TO BE TESTED

Mandamus action against Ed Vasey, city clerk, was filed yesterday afternoon, returnable on November 4, following the city's action in refusing to issue to Joe Friend, Santa Ana, a city license to operate a taxi cab company in Santa Ana.

The action was filed by Attorney D. G. Wetlin, attorney for Friend, in the superior court. As a result of the action, the city council last night held up its committee report regarding the Home Taxi Cab company's proposed city license, although it had no direct bearing on the Friend case.

Friend previously had been turned down by the city council when he filed an application for a license with that body several weeks ago. It was because of the action the council took that Vasey could not issue the license.

The application was denied by the council on the grounds that there was no need for another taxi cab company in Santa Ana, the council stating itself with the right to reject applications on these grounds through a new city ordinance which recently went into effect.

John H. Wilson, owner of the Home Taxi Cab company here, which is now being operated without a city license, was arrested under the old ordinance, charged with operating without a license and the case was tried before Judge J. G. Mitchell in police court. Mitchell ruled the ordinance was unconstitutional and declared Wilson not guilty.

The city appealed the case to the superior court and the superior court threw it out on the grounds that an appeal can not be made from a "not guilty" verdict.

The mandamus action now brings the case into court where a ruling will be made on the constitutionality of the new taxi cab ordinance. If the court rules the new ordinance is valid then the city council will have the right to reject applications as it sees fit, on the grounds that no necessity exists for more taxi cab companies in Santa Ana.

At the present time there are two cab companies operating here, one with a city license, the other Eltiste and Company, $2,765.50 with a trade in value of $950 for the old tractor.

The city clerk was instructed to draw warrants for B. J. McMullen for $598.14 and for George Dunton for $671.50 in payment for two automobiles the city bought last week and for Crossley and Wilkins, painters for $195.50, the amount due for re-decorating the city hall building.

The application of J. A. Fitzgerald for permission to erect a building at the southwest corner of Stanford street and South Main street, to be used as a laundry building, was approved at a meeting of the city council and the city planning commission last night.

HIGH WIND PLAYS PRANKS ON CAMPUS AT JAYCEE

Propelling a pop-corn machine through the southwest arches and down the outer sidewalk, where it was tipped over, and serving as an all-around nuisance in other respects, Santa Ana's stubborn wind caused no little confusion on the junior college campus yesterday.

Among other things, just as Jim Goodfellow, vice president, was closing the glass door on the college's advertising bulletin, located in front of the main building, along came a gust of wind and scattered all over the lawn the metal letters which Goodfellow had arranged to advertise the Soph-Frosh dance, scheduled for Huntington Beach Saturday night.

Leaves, shed by the many campus trees, kept barring the south entrance to the college hall, and it required the services of a janitor to keep the passage clear for the some 700 students who hourly pass through the arches.

Costa Mesa Barn is Scene of Merry Party

A delightful party honoring the birthday anniversary of Miss Maxine Gidcomb, started Saturday evening in her home here and concluded in a barn at Costa Mesa where all decorations had been arranged in typical Halloween fashion. The evening was planned as a surprise to the honoree, with Miss Vera Merilyn Getty, talented dancer of the city, acting as hostess.

Guests met in the home of Miss La Rene McMillan, and then continued to the home of Miss Gidcomb, presenting the birthday celebration with an array of lovely gifts. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Gidcomb, 1102 West Pine street.

From this point the group went to the Costa Mesa barn, loaned for the occasion by Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilcox. Costly, ghostly objects and weird lighting effects gave the left a mysterious appearance.

Numerous Halloween games were played. Miss Alyce Brown was awarded a prize in a talent contest, while Miss Gidcomb won first place in guessing game. A fortune wheel proved an interesting diversion later in the evening.

Refreshments included apple cider, doughnuts, candied popcorn, apples, nuts and Halloween candies.

Guests present wore appropriate costumes, and included the honoree, Miss Gidcomb and Mr. and Mrs. Gidcomb and Miss Vera Getty, the hostess; Miss La Rene McMillan, Miss Alyce Brown, Miss Thelma Trickey, Miss Margie Chapman, Mrs. Harry Olson, Mrs. Glen Hulce of this city and the Misses Kay Peckham and Ann McCaffrey and Mrs. Edward McGaffrey of Whittier, cousins and aunt of the honoree.

Scots Planning Dance For Crippled Tots' Christmas Cheer

Santa Ana Scots, with genial friendliness, are making special plans for the entertainment of a great crowd of guests at their Halloween carnival dance Wednesday night in Moose hall. They have announced the affair as a costume dance although those who prefer to dress in ordinary garb need not feel that it will be a barrier to their admission.

However, the Scots anticipate that most of their guests will don special apparel for the evening and to that end have promised some clever prizes for the best and funniest outfits. Judges will be announced on the night in question.

Homer G. Lyman, general chairman, and his committee are being assisted in all plans for the dance by J. E. Walker, toparch of the pyramid. Those plans include of course, the music, the most important feature of a dance. And for the coming event, the Scots have promised the popular Janet Martin six-piece orchestra. Ice cream punch will be served during the evening.

Funds realized from the dance will be devoted to a very laudable purpose, for they will bring Christmas joy to the hearts of little crippled children. The local pyramid maintains a foundation fund for the hospital treatment of such cases, and last year over 300 children received treatment. But this fund does not include such things as Christmas remembrances, so the pyramid started its "Sunshine fund" for the express purpose of remembering the little sufferers on childhood's own holiday.

Immediate Wedding Date Inspires Plans for Gift Shower

Announcement of plans for the immediate wedding of Miss Lillian Ann Neumann of Orange, and George ("Bud") Thorpe of Los Angeles and New York, came so suddenly to friends of the lovely young bride-elect that they have had little time to put into effect, plans for pre-nuptial courtesies first made when the betrothal of the young people became one of those fascinating "open secrets."

But in the short interval since Miss Neumann's return from six weeks spent in Denver with her aunt, Miss Nellie Bergenstrand, and her announced wedding date of today, October 25, Miss Julia Thorndike of this city, and her sister, Mrs. Albert Thierat of Corona, hastily perfected their plans for a party which proved to be a delightful function held last night in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Thorndike, 1525 North Broadway.

Close friends of Miss Neumann were assembled for a bridge party to which the vivid Halloween appointments gave additional charm. Zinnias, chrysanthemums and co-tonaster sprays lent grace to the floral decorations, while tally cards and score pads emphasized the holiday so soon to come.

Bridge honors were carried off by Miss Alyce Majors and Miss Georgia Turner, who chanced to score equally high, so that prize awards went to them on a cut of the cards. Gifts were crystal earrings and such pretty trivolties as girls like best.

With the prize award, Miss Neumann was informed that she ranked with the bridge winners, and hers was the pleasure of receiving a gay orange basket quite overflowing with packages. Inspection of the gifts showed that they were mainly personal articles to be added to her trousseau, selected for today's bride by her assembled friends.

Miss Thorndike and Mrs. Thierat were assisted by their mother, Mrs. Alfred H. Thorndike, in receiving guests, and in the details of arranging card tables with gay orange and black linens and appointments for serving the tammale supper with which the happy evening came to a close.

The sister hostesses entertained in addition to their honoree, Miss Neumann, her mother, Mrs. Henry C. Neumann, and Miss Eula Kirkwood of Orange; the Misses Helen Stauffer, Betty Smith, Helen Glancy, Louise Rurup, Barbara Rurup, Marguerite Lentz, Virginia Bailey, Georgia Turner, Alyce Majors, Beth Westcott, Jean Peacock, Helen Spangler, Loretta Spangler, and Frances Birtcher; Mesdames Fayette Birtcher, Martin Elliott, Francis Norton, Ernest Crumrine, Robert Goetting, Joseph Bradley and Alfred H. Thorndike of this city; Mrs. Edward Thierat of Corona; Miss Violet Boege of Anaheim; Miss Eleanor Randall and Mrs. Joseph Shuler, Los Angeles.

Others on the hostess committee with Mrs. Jones are Mrs. S. F. Simonton, Mrs. David R. Day, Mrs. Harley Brewer, Mrs. William P. Alexander and Mrs. John E. Gill of Fullerton.

With the Gonzales orchestra providing music for the evening, dancing proved especially enjoyable. A silver bowl filled with candy was the special prize won by Mr. Wanger and his dancing partner. Refreshments of sandwiches, doughnuts, cider and coffee were served.

Proceeds from the affair are to be used by the Native Daughters in carrying out their program of welfare work.

Mrs. Herbert Bray was chairman of the successful evening. Assisting her were Mrs. Mildred Grey, president of Santa Ana senior, and Mrs. E. U. Dickinson, Mrs. A. West, Mrs. Walter Hickey, Mrs. H. F. Witt and Mrs. George Seba.

Club Members Attend Hallowe'en Bridge Dinner

When Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bittle entertained members of their bridge club Saturday night at Ketter's cafe, they observed a colorful autumn theme in all appointments. The dinner tables were strewn with pretty leaves and lighted with tall orange tapers in black holders. Black bowls were filled with large yellow chrysanthemums, and place cards further evidenced a Halloween theme.

Following the dinner, orange and black tallies were distributed for bridge play. Mrs. Wilbur Gill and R. Adkinson scored high and Mrs. V. C. Shidler and Mr. Gill, low. Those taking part in the affair were Messrs. and Mesdames Phillip La Lowe, Earl New, Frank King, R. Adkinson, C. Reid, Wilbur Gill, Leonard White, V. C. Shidler; Mrs. Earl Lepper and Mrs. Lampton and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Bittle.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown will be hosts at the next meeting, November 12.

D. A. V. Auxiliary Gives Pleasant Party and Plans Another

Planned by Mrs. A. H. Jones, Mrs. George Gold, Mrs. J. A. Jordan and Mrs. J. M. Makiely, the bridge party shared Saturday night by members of Jack Fisher chapter and auxiliary, Disabled American Veterans and their friends, was a thoroughly enjoyable affair. Through the courtesy of Weber's bakery the guests met in their clubrooms, 2656 North Main street, where many chrysanthemums had been placed by the hostess group to give a charm all their own to the scene.

Bridge was played, and in the contest Mrs. Harry D. Edwards succeeded in making high score among the women players, with A. H. Jones scoring high among the men. They were suitably rewarded while equally attractive consolation gifts went to Mrs. B. H. Chittenden and F. J. Kelly, scoring low in the contest.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of play when tallies were freshened with pretty appointments including small flowerpots with chrysanthemums.

Chapter and auxiliary members are anticipating another bridge party for Friday night of this week, when they will motor to Isaak Walton lodge in Hillcrest park, Fullerton, which has been reserved by them for the evening. Reservations are being made with a speed that is gratifying to the committee in charge, more than a score of tables having been reserved already. But it has been pointed out that the lodge is spacious and an extremely large crowd can be accommodated, so those wishing tables may secure them by telephoning Mrs. A. H. Jones, 5245-J.

Others on the hostess committee with Mrs. Jones are Mrs. S. F. Simonton, Mrs. David R. Day, Mrs. Harley Brewer, Mrs. William P. Alexander and Mrs. John E. Gill of Fullerton.

Legion Auxiliary Will Have Costume Party

Legion auxiliary members are completing plans for their hard times' costume dance to be held Saturday night, October 29, at 9 o'clock in the Legion hall. Legionnaires are to be guests at the affair.

Halloween, with its varied symbols, is to provide the theme for the evening. Mrs. Emma Penn, chairman, has the assistance of Mrs. Evelyn Inhoff, Mrs. Adelaide Nuebaum and Mrs. Mabel Thatcher in making arrangements for the event.

Ebell Head Entertains Leaders of Younger Organization

A luncheon tendered Junior Ebell officers past and present by Mrs. Paul Bailey, Senior Ebell club president, Saturday noon proved doubly pleasurable since it served as an unwitting prelude to the announcement tea given by Mrs. Lewis F. Moulton and her daughter, Miss Charlotte Moulton, at the Santa Ana Country club, later that afternoon. Mrs. Bailey's entire group of guests, consisting of Junior Ebell executives and Senior Ebell advisors, repaired at the luncheon's conclusion to the Country club where they received with delight news of the engagement of Miss Moulton, who recently entered upon her second year as secretary of Junior Ebell society.

While Miss Moulton herself was unable to attend the luncheon, other Junior Ebell leaders of this year and last were gathered at Mrs. Bailey's invitation for the courtesy. Mrs. Bailey served her guests a delicious repast at tables gaily decked with smaller flowers of the season.

Assisting the hostess in various phases of the hospitality were Mrs. Fred C. Rowland and Mrs. F. P. Jayne, while guests invited to share Mrs. Bailey's courtesy were Mrs. Robert S. Wade, Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, Miss Mary Safley, Mrs. Lloyd Shearer (Margaret Patterson) Miss Boyd Joplin, Mrs. J. P. Sidford, Miss Nan Mead, Miss Dorothy Foy, Miss Constance Cruikshank, Miss Rowena Moore, Mrs. Russell Wilson and Miss Charlotte Moulton; Mesdames Emrys D. White, Terry Stephenson, John Tessmann and Robert Tuthill.

Trio of Musicians in Concert Before Ebell Club

The rapidly aging adage about the ill wind with potentialities for good might be truthfully applied to the program presented before the Santa Ana Ebell society yesterday when at least a small percentage of members, braving the blow, found the venture pleasantly profitable.

The wind's fortuitous aspects were represented yesterday by the three performers engaged to present the musicale, programmed as "Young America in Trio." Its personnel included Sylvain Jarvis, soprano, Douglas Steade, tenor, and Raymond McFeeters, pianist.

Introducing the program were two duets, sung by Miss Jarvis and Mr. Steade and Mr. McFeeters' accompaniment, their choices being "Bird's Farewell" (Hildach) and "Verrano a te su-aure" from the opera, Lucia di Lammermoor by Donizetti, the familiarity of the latter number making it especially acceptable.

Soprano Pleases Possessed of a voice of unusual volume, Miss Jarvis appeared to find a natural medium in the solo, preceding "Villanelle" (Deil'Acqua) permitting the soprano to illustrate her command of technical form, with two numbers less trying, "Quando me'n vo." Musetta's Valse Song from La Boheme (Puccini) and "Dawn" (Curran).

The piano interlude proved enchanting. Mr. McFeeters showing a beautiful mastery of the keys in all three numbers of his group, opening with "Chant d'Armour" (Stojowski) from which he seemed to drain every note of melody. There followed "Bourree," a dance by Paul Juon, in which a tripping air was tapped out on the upper keys while the lower notes beat out a rhythmic measure. In "Garden in the Rain" (Debussy) third selection, the pianist attempted something more difficult, bringing more strength to his interpretation, while retaining the even control of the keys demonstrated in the two preceding numbers. To the applause Mr. McFeeters responded with a composition of his own, "Trelude Appassionata." Mr. Steade displayed a tenor voice of smoothness and purity in his three solo offerings, singing "Le Reve" (The Dream) (Manon) by Massenet, "Do Not Go My Love" (Hagemann) and "Bird Songs at Eventide" (Coates) lyric selections charmingly interpreted. His encore was "Mamma's Song" by Harriet Ware.

Returning in a Japanese costume, Miss Jarvis delighted her audience with two Japanese songs, chosen by the artist during a recent tour of the Orient for their representative qualities, and sung in the Japanese language. They were titled "Sakura, Sakura" (Yamada) and "Yomachigusa" and preceded a third number appropriate to her costume: "One Fine Day" from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly." Mr. McFeeters lent excellent support throughout at the piano.

Announcements made earlier in the afternoon called attention of members to the next meeting on November 14, which has been designated as "Day Nursery Day." Donations of all sorts to the Day Nursery storeroom will be received from members at that time. Mrs. H. B. Hall reminded the club that contributions to the quilt show which the Sixth Household Economics section is presenting November 15-18 would be acceptable.

In preparing the salad cut the pork in small dice as you would chicken, and moisten with the cup of broth. All the finely shredded celery—and this salad should be stripped of threads if you want your salad nice—the chopped walnuts and stuffed olives, cut in thin rounds. Pour on half of the mayonnaise, toss with two forks and serve on lettuce leaves with more mayonnaise and olives (whole) for garnish.

I think for informal evening serving nothing is better than a salad of this type with small crusty rolls and fragrant hot coffee. If you feel that dessert must be served, why not have a big plate of bright red apples? Good for teeth and tummies and easy on the pocketbook and back!

Wedding Anniversary Observed Quietly In Home Here

The past week brought a delightful evening to the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. McClellan, 619 East Bishop street, where an informal celebration was held honoring the 40th anniversary of their wedding day.

For a time the dining room, with its array of appetizing and dainty dishes, was the center of interest. Here, Misses Mame and Nan Caskey of Los Angeles prepared daintily appointed trays for guests, with Mrs. Ralph McClellan assisting in the serving.

A small circle of intimate friends had been invited to take part in the evening. The group included the Misses Caskey of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McClellan, son and daughter-in-law of the hosts; and the Rev. and Mrs. Carson, the Rev. and Mrs. G. N. Greer, the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. J. Addison Dodds, Mr. and Mrs. B. Thompson, Mrs. Ada Thompson, and Miss Ethel Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. McClellan were married in Newcastle, Pa., later moving to Greeley, Colo. They came to California six years ago, and have spent the greater part of this time in Santa Ana, where Mr. McClellan and his son, Ralph McClellan, are in the contracting business.

Mrs. McClellan is one of the leaders in W. C. T. U. work of the city and is advisor of the King's Daughters of the Reformed Presbyterian church.

Hoover Man Of Vision, Young Men's Club Told

L. A. ATTORNEY CITES VALUE OF TARIFF BILLS

ORANGE, Oct. 25.—A man with vision, a man with a deep sympathy for humanity, a man with a keen insight into international and national problems, a man whose wise foresight anticipated national situations and made plans to cope with them, a man vilified and denounced as no man in America ever before has been, was the picture skillfully and brilliantly drawn of Herbert Hoover by Mark Jones, Los Angeles attorney, at a dinner meeting of the Young Men's Republican club of Orange at the American Legion clubhouse last night, when nearly 300 were present.

Traces Hoover's Life
Tracing the life of the president from humble beginnings on an Iowa farm, through his orphaned childhood to the great and successful career which has been his, the speaker pointed out that Hoover's ability had been the means of his securing the position given him by the Chinese Imperial government when as an engineer in that country he had had 23,000 men under him.

He also called attention to the fact that when the World war broke out, Hoover was in England and Americans wished to return to their native land, that Hoover accomplished this feat by the finest piece of executive ability the world has ever seen. He was selected to make plans for feeding the Belgians following the invasion of that country and by the Democrats as food administrator during the World war.

Jones pointed out that the serious difficulties which are facing the nation are not appreciated by the young people of America and he decried the lack of thought behind issues of the campaign.

"We must dedicate ourselves for the next two weeks to an educational campaign such as America has never before known," declared Jones. "The most momentous day in American history exists. It is a day of greater importance to the American people than the election of the first president or the Civil war."

Rancher Concerned
The rancher is especially concerned with the outcome of the election November 8, Jones said, as he showed how the walnut industry would be affected by a reduction of tariff on shelled or unshelled walnuts. American walnut growers now supply 95 per cent of the walnuts marketed in this country, he said. Jones stated that China with its cheap labor, living conditions impossible for Americans, was the chief competitor in the walnut industry.

The General Electric company recently closed an entire plant with a payroll of 600 persons because there had been an influx of cheap labor from Japan to this country, said the speaker. He told how, before the tariff protected the American orange growers, oranges were sent on ships as ballast to this country from Scilly. Agriculture is the second largest industry in America, Jones stated, with all the first. He showed how the poultry and egg industries had been improved by the 1921 tariff bill which had increased the tariff on dried eggs, shipped from China from 15 cents a pound to 27 cents a pound and then to 50 cents a pound.

Poultrymen Aided
After this tariff went into effect, Jones pointed out, the American poultry industry increased by leaps and bounds. He declared that labor conditions in China should not be reproduced in the United States.

"Roosevelt pronounces the tariff a vicious thing, but if democracy is victorious, disturbed business conditions will result."

"Hoover is blamed for the stock market crash. This occurred eight months after his election and it never has been the duty of the federal government to interfere with the investments of the public. The worst orgy of speculation in the money markets of New York occurred when Roosevelt was governor and had unlimited power. Roosevelt's speeches are as devoid of original thought as any ever given."

"Before Roosevelt's nomination the leaders of the party did not believe him capable as a party leader. What has changed them in this short period? Roosevelt has Hearst's support and to follow means the destruction of America."

Tariff History Given
The speaker traced the history of tariff from the McKinley bill to the tariff bill of 1929. He showed Hoover's foresight in calling conferences of labor and industrial leaders, bankers and railway men when the depression loomed ahead. Sixty-seven million dollars had been spent in the relief of agriculture, said Jones, as he clearly outlined the world conditions brought about by the World war which must be paid for.

When England went off the gold standard, 15 countries went with her. Jones pointed out, only France and America maintained the gold standard. The speaker showed the results of England's action on American markets and declared in this chaotic time America stood like a beacon in the world.

Here's the Way to Control Those Miserable Colds So Prevalent Here Now

AN epidemic of "grippy" colds seems to be developing here now. It is a situation that demands serious thought and action. Every mother, especially, knows that colds tend to pull down body resistance—that each cold paves the way for other colds and more serious ills. Don't take chances. Avoid all colds possible. Treat every cold promptly. For greatest safety and protection, follow Vicks Plan for better Control-of-Colds;

TO PREVENT MANY COLDS: At that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—Nature's usual warning that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose and Throat Drops, the new aid in preventing colds. Vicks Drops aid Nature in throwing off the infection that threatens. They prevent development of many colds.

TO END A COLD SOONER: If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. At bedtime apply Vicks VapoRub. Its direct double action—continuing through the night—brings quicker relief. During the day use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. They add to comfort—help shorten the cold.

THE TINYMITES

Each Tinymite began to grin and then the whole bunch hopped right in the box that was the body of the funny, wooden horse. The knowledge bug cried, "That's the way! And now you'll have some fun today. Don't let it scare you if you travel on a zigzag course."

"The horse can fly both here and there, as long as it is in the air. Of course when it is on the ground, it walks instead of flies. Its wings, however, are real strong, so it prefers to sail along among the clouds and stars and things away up in the skies."

Then to the Tinymites' surprise, the horse swung round and blinked its eyes. "Well, are you ready?" it exclaimed. "Can you all hang on tight?"

"You bet," said Scouty. "Fly away! Right in this box we all will stay. I don't think you'll have trouble 'cause we all are small and light."

The wooden horse began to run. Then up it went and, see, what

Then Windy said, "I wonder where the knowledge bug is. In the air, or down upon the ground? That's what I'd really like to know."

A wee voice answered, "I am here. I will not leave you, never fear. Wherever you lads sail away to, I also will go."

They soon sailed through a small white cloud which pleased the happy Tiny crowd. Said Duncy, "Gee, but that was fun! It seemed just like some smoke. 'If we should come to one that's black, I hope our horse will turn right back. A black one might be filled with rain and that would be no joke."

PROPAGANDA ON WAR ATTACKED IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, Oct. 25.—People of the churches of America should thank God for peace on Armistice day and should turn their thoughts to peace for Christ came that we might have peace, the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman told his congregation last Sunday in a sermon on "Living Propagandists." These propagandists he designated as those people who spent their lives enticing nations to arm, and to prepare for invasions from other nations.

According to the speaker, the Christian church needs to follow the Prince of Peace, and assist in discouraging these lying propagandists who are responsible for the ill feeling of the nations of the world. It can be done by attending on the advice of the Christ, he said.

At the evening service the high school and junior college young people were guests, occupying a special section.

The morning service included a sermon on "The Sacred Tenth" for the adults and one on "Reading Our Gospels" for the children.

Mrs. Brown of the Good Will Industries spoke on the need of assistance for that work, where salvaging rags, and selling them at a small price, provides work for hundreds of old and handicapped persons. She said old furniture is especially acceptable now, for many people are losing all they own, and are in need of cheaply purchased furniture for homes.

MAN WYK TELLS POSITION ON TAXES, LABOR

Matters in connection with his campaign for election as supervisor of the first district were discussed last night by Charles D. Van Wyk at a meeting of campaign workers in the Hill building.

Van Wyk told his supporters his stand on the matter of lower taxes and a reduction in county government costs but not at the expense of efficiency in any department. He also explained why he is advocating an equal division of the state gasoline tax apportionment in Orange county.

He said that if elected as supervisor he will work for a clause in every contract awarded requiring that 90 per cent of the labor employed be Orange county residents. He would provide that a check of the percentage of local labor be made daily and funds withheld from the contractor when the average drops below the contracted percentage.

Speaking of his stand against repeal of the Wright act and his pledge to work for a county enforcement ordinance should it be repealed, Van Wyk said that retention of the Wright act and all other laws for enforcement of the eighteenth amendment as long as it is a part of the constitution of the United States is a matter of good citizenship.

NO COLLEGE DEATHS IN 1932 FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The 1932 "safety" rule changes seem to have abolished virtually the death list in college football, but they have failed to halt competition.

With the season half over, the football death toll now stands at 13. None of these deaths occurred in a college game.

The only college fatality injured was Martin Hugh Williams, 18, freshman at Loyola, New Orleans. He was kicked in the stomach when the freshman team was scrimmaging the varsity in practice.

Three school boys died from blood poisoning following minor football cuts or bruises. Four died of broken necks. The other fatalities were due to internal or head injuries.

Election of officers featured the first annual meeting of the Insurance Exchange of Orange county which was held last night in Ketter's cafe.

E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist of Santa Ana was elected president to succeed A. Curtis Case, of Anaheim. Leonard West, of Fullerton, was named vice president and Harold "Shorty" Harrison, of Santa Ana, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

John Henderson of Santa Ana, Clyde Newton of Orange and Roy Peacock of Laguna Beach were elected on the board of directors.

A crowd that filled the church auditorium greeted Miss Dorothy Shuler of Los Angeles, at the Spurgeon Memorial M. E. church last night, when she spoke of the interests of the candidacy of her father, the Rev. Bob Shuler, who is seeking election to the U. S. senate.

Other speakers on the program were D. G. Johnson, of Whittier, who urged the election of Shuler; Bertha Briney, who read a poem, "Bob Shuler, the Man of the Hour," written by Peter L. Briney; and M. Marvin, of Downey, who discussed the proposed amendments listed as No. 1 and 2 on the November ballot.

HOOPER SEEN BY CHAIRMAN

ORANGE, Oct. 25.—Talks by candidates marked the meeting of the Young Men's Republican club at the Orange Legion hall last night, with Ivan Swanger, president of the club, presiding. Howard Irwin, of Fullerton, chairman of the county committee, made a number of announcements for meetings which include a tea Wednesday at the C. C. Other meetings scheduled are a rally at Huntington Beach at the Memorial hall October 28, a rally at Garden Grove November 1, a meeting at Westminster November 2 and a rally at Santa Ana November 4. Everything will be done to make this meeting as nearly like a political rally of the past as possible. There will be a parade and bands and the Republican elephant is to be present. The talks of the evening are to be given at the Santa Ana high school, with Senator Nels Edwards, Tallant Tubbs, James Utt and Sam Collins as speakers. Irwin declared that he was confident that Orange county would do itself proud in rolling up a vote for Hoover.

Guests introduced included Frank Rosaspaw, of Placentia; A. W. McBride, of La Habra; Homer Chaney, president of the Young Men's Republican club of Orange county; Justus Cramer, secretary of the state central committee, and Ted Craig, assemblyman.

MORE THOUGHTS ON THE AMENDMENTS

A few days ago we took occasion to discuss the various amendments and proposed referendum measures.

Number 10 on the ballot is a proposition authorizing the city of Escondido to hold stock in a mutual water company. On general principles we are opposed to a municipality becoming a stockholder in a company, of which private citizens are a part. It is rather an incongruous condition, and brings about a relationship which does not bode the best for government. But as it appears that the people of Escondido desire it, and are handicapped from procuring water in any other manner, and as this Constitutional provision applies only to them, we should advise voting "Yes" on the amendment.

Proposition number 11, declared to be a tidal grant to the city of Huntington Beach, is really a contest between oil companies for the oil underlying that section of the coast in Huntington Beach. This particular act, owing to certain contracts agreed upon already, would give one oil company the privilege of drilling for oil between the wells now run by the Standard Oil and the water. Those who are in favor of this proposition urge that at any rate the city and the state will get a portion of the money derived from this oil. Those who oppose it claim that it will injure the beaches. In these local measures we desire to defer to the local community. When a measure that would permit this very thing to be done was before the people last May, the city of Huntington Beach, by a majority, voted against it. We have no real evidence that there has been a change in the sentiment of the people there. It seems to us that they have asked us to vote "No," therefore, on this proposition. Unless they can change this evidence, we will follow the only advice we have had from them that looks reliable.

Number 12 is an amendment applying only to the city of Glendale, and seems only to give power to the city to in equity adjust the costs of the replacement of water mains to the entire city, in view of the fact that the Glendale Public Service department maintains a surplus. As it seems that Glendale is a unit on it, we should advise voting for it. Vote "Yes."

Number 13 gives the legislature power to amend the State Athletic Commission Initiative act, without which the legislature would be powerless. There is very little legislation enacted, which does not disclose weaknesses when it is applied. And owing to the fact that the Athletic Commission act was an initiative measure, it is only by such an act as this that the legislature can be given power to change or amend it. The legislature is being held responsible, of course, for such changes as they determine upon. We would advise that this be done. Vote "Yes" on this measure.

The exemption of vessels from taxation, in the proposed amendment which will be on the ballot as Number 14, seems to be necessary, in order to compete with other states. This provision would insure that vessels could only be taxed for state purposes, regardless of where registered, and only applies to vessels above 50 tons burden. We should advise voting "Yes" on this amendment.

Number 15 affords to any public or municipal corporation in the state the provisions of Section 16-1-2, Article XI of the Constitution, respecting the deposit of public moneys. In effect, it makes the Metropolitan Water District and similar corporations public corporations, and makes this provision in regard to the deposit of public money applicable to them. We should advise voting "Yes" on this amendment.

Question Number 16 provides that a tax, in the case of property, uncollected at the end of 30 years, shall cease to be a lien upon the property. That is, that there shall be a presumption in law that it is paid. The reasons for this are obvious. The sponsors of it claim that people are now digging up old claims of the government, and are receiving a portion of the amount due for finding them. It does seem that if the right of the government has not been exercised for 30 years, it is time to consider the matter closed. Those opposing it urge that this puts a premium upon the tax-dodger, but he certainly does not contemplate a 30-year dodging of taxes for the purpose of getting the property away from the government, for the government can exercise that any time within the period. We should advise voting "Yes" on this amendment.

Number 17, in respect to city charters, extends the time the board of freeholders can prepare their city charter, and also provides that the copy of the charter must be printed in all the editions of the paper which has the legal printing thereof, rather than one edition. It does seem as though there is more time required after the election of freeholders for the preparation of their charter. It cannot be done, and well done in haste, and we think these provisions are wise. We would advise voting "Yes."

In number 18 there is an authorization of the Board of Supervisors to draft county charters. The county now gives the privilege to freeholders who are elected. This does not change the present law, but adds to it. In view of the fact that there would likely be conflict between two such bodies for the same purpose, as an agitation for a charter, we should advise voting "No," leaving the power in one body as at present.

Number 19 adds a provision which will enable a city charter to provide for proportional representation. That is, it could be done under special charter if this were passed. Proportional representation would give minority groups, a voice and probably make for unity in our legislative bodies, and would help in that respect in carrying out projects upon which they agree. We should advise voting "Yes" on this amendment.

Number 20 makes the same provision for the county, and we would advise voting "Yes" upon this.

In going over these amendments, we would advise the voter generally, that if he is not clear upon any of them, or has any doubt, that he should vote "No," rather than thrust an unwise measure upon the people. Many of these amendments to the Constitution should never be in a Constitution at all, and the speed with which amendments are being added is rapidly making the Constitution of California an absurd document.

A Constitution should only comprise the most fundamental provisions, declaring the powers which are delegated by the people to their legislative body, together with the powers of the Chief Executive and the courts. There should be an aim to have all laws governing municipalities uniform throughout the state. But the special legislation which is here made a part of the Constitution, in many states would be declared to be unconstitutional in its nature. The number of acts and the intricacy of some of them, makes it well nigh absurd to expect that the million and a half of voters in California can wisely determine every one of these measures. As far as the legislation is concerned, if we voted "No" on all of them, and left the matter up to the legislature itself, we would not be far amiss.

THIS IS A PREDICAMENT

Stanislaus Rabachinski is a young man of 23. He was born in Russia. His father was killed in the Revolution, and he and his mother escaped and settled in Budapest, Hungary, till 1925. Unable to make a home there, he walked about to make one successively in Switzerland, Austria, Roumania, Germany, Holland and England. But from all these countries he was excluded. Then he came to the United States as a stowaway. He was detained at Ellis Island, and now his deportation has been ordered. But the question is, to what country can he be deported? Russia will not receive him. He cannot be sent back to the countries which have already excluded him. It is quite certain that no other European country will take him in. Here is a man without a country. One country after another has sent him forth. There is no place for him to go. And, of course, our own government cannot throw him into the sea.

This is a real predicament, not only for the young man, but also for our government. This sort of thing has grown up since the world war. Before that war there was great freedom of migration from one country to another. An American could go to every country in Europe without ever being asked to show his passport. All this has changed. Fear of the foreigner exists in every country. The economic depression makes it difficult for each country to take care of its own people. Barriers of every kind have been set up between the nations. All this resulting from the war, and the revival of a chauvinistic nationalism everywhere. This is war's legacy.

American Language

Portland Oregonian
American experts in language, traveling through the rural sections of the Eastern counties of England, occasionally hear expressions and phrases from the country folk that are "strangely American." These experts reason that all American speech originates from British immigrants, mostly from the Eastern counties, and believe that they may yet find a speech, hidden away in a remote part of Britain, which so closely resembles the speech retained in obscure communities of the Ozarks and Appalachians, that the relationships will become apparent.

Possibly so, but it is improbable. British speech, generally speaking, sounds excited and rather ridiculous to American ears. American speech, on the other hand, is reported to sound "thin, flat and uneventful" to the Englishman.

This major difference is one which has resulted from the modes of life in the two countries. The loneliness of the American frontier, which dominated our American life for close to 300 years, worked a major change in the language. For instance, it is said of the old mountain men of Oregon, such as Joe Meek and Doc Newell, that they were extremely "slow spoken." Their cases, of course, were extreme, since they had lived so much by themselves. But the whole continent was peopled, step by step, by frontiersmen. The first thin layer of settlers, from sea to sea, lived in isolation and learned to speak slowly. The American language which has developed from this is more distinct than the parent English, but it has lost something in tonal effects, tending towards the monotonous. If, through the radio and talking pictures, the two methods of speech draw together, it will be to the benefit of both, though we do think the British should go a little more than half way.

Have You Seen Sarah Ann?

San Francisco Chronicle
The missing Sarah Ann is not going to have the police in her trail. But she will have the astronomers. For Sarah Ann is nothing but an island no bigger than a freckle on the broad Pacific that has suddenly gone astray. Time was when the charts showed Sarah Ann a dot just above the equator to the northeast of Christmas Island. But now that the astronomers need Sarah Ann badly she cannot be found.

The astronomers need this waltz of the seas as a standpoint from which to watch the sun's eclipse in 1937. In June of that year the sun will be eclipsed totally by the moon for about seven minutes. In all the Pacific Sarah Ann is the only land suitable for observation in the 5000-mile long and 120-mile wide band of the eclipse's totality. There is no possibility of setting up a station except on land, because of the precision necessary for the observations.

Sarah Ann was alive ten years ago. In her little dress of blue she may be seen in the atlas watching the ships pass by on their route from Melbourne to Mexico. But since then she has disappeared from the charts of the Naval Almanac office in Washington. There is a theory that maybe Sarah Ann never existed. But Professor A. Kopp, director of the Rechen Institute of Berlin does not believe this. And he is now on his way home to get the German ships to find the missing waltz of the seas.

If anybody runs across Sarah Ann will they please report her to these distressed astronomers?

More Truth Than Poetry

AT LAST THE TRUTH

An entomologist declares
That, season after season,
The busy ant his nest repairs
Without the aid of reason
In his small cerebellum lies
No power of cerebration,
And so the crawling fraud believes
His noble reputation.

Throughout my life I've looked askance
On these repellent creatures;
It's always seemed to me that ants
Have no redeeming features.
Upon their tiny hills of mould
I frequently would trample
Because so often I was told
To follow their example.

But now this dull, pretentious bug,
Which men have set much store on,
Has been found out to be a smug
And brain deficient moron—
Now we have learned that all its praise
Is insincere and hollow,
I trust no more the humbug's ways
We shall be told to follow.

However, why except the ant?
In life he's not so lonely;
For other heads are adamant,
And not his thick one only.
A lack of any reasoning mind
And heads as hard as boulders
Observers now and then may find
Imposed on human shoulders.

Why do scientists so solemnly insist that man use to be a fish?

A radical is a man who realizes that nothing in the way of change could make his fix any worse.

"Justice for the underprivileged classes," being interpreted, means: "They, also, shall have a crack at the Treasury."

AMERICANISM: Thanking our stars because we are free people without a boss; making a mess of licking the depression because nobody has authority to do what is necessary.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE CAUCUS OF THE PELICANS

I spent a delightful and invigorating hour with the Secretary of the Interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur, who dropped into our home for a fleeting visit the other day.

It was Wilbur, the schoolman, more than Wilbur, the cabinet member, for most of the hour, but nowadays no one from Washington can keep wholly away from the political problem.

As we talked politics for a time, Mr. Wilbur summed up the situation in the following parable.

Years ago, he said, great flocks of brown pelicans soared from eighteen to thirty feet above the waters of the Pacific off the California coast.

Now and then they would list sideways, dive into the ocean, and come up usually eating a fish.

Thus they made their living by fishing in waters well-stocked with sardine.

Later canning factories arose on the coast, the sardine were brought in by boat-loads, and prepared for canning; it was found that part of the fish must be cut away and discarded before canning; this discarded part was thrown into the ocean by the side of the wharves.

The pelicans soon found that this mass of waste provided an easy food supply.

"Some of the fish," he said with a twinkle, "was good for the cans and some for the pelicans."

Before long, the pelicans were fishing less and feasting more on the discarded waste from the canning factories.

Then, one day, the depression came, and the gratuitous food supply along the wharves disappeared.

The old pelicans held a caucus and damned the administration.

"Well," said the old pelicans, "it looks as if we'll have to go back to fishing."

But the young pelicans protested.

"You've never taught us to fish," they said, "and our muscles are soft after feeding so long from an easy food supply."

"We can't help it," said the old pelicans. "All the bond salesman jobs are gone. You'll have to fish."

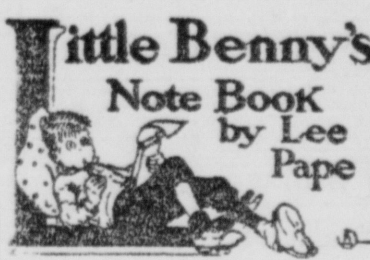

Here is our problem in the nutshell of a neat parable.

There are still swarming schools of good fish in our economic waters. All of the raw materials of a stable and satisfying economic life are at hand. It is a question of our buckling down to the job of expert fishing.

Our future does not lie in fevered speculation, watered stock, or government subsidies, but in hard work, steady intelligence, and a close adherence to economic realities.

Clear heads, steady hands, and faith in the future—that is the best battle cry for a great people.

THE ORCHESTRA LEADER

"The only thing he does well is his music. He leads the orchestra and nothing is too much to do for the success of the musical program. He will work for hours preparing scores and practice is sacred. Everything else is dropped, no good, too hard. He ought to graduate this term. He's a year and a half behind now."

"We will have to push him through somehow. Each of us take a subject and see if we can't scrape up enough credits to see him out. He has to graduate. We can't keep him here forever."

So the teachers pushed and prodded the orchestra leader through high school. Then his mother called at the office. "We want to send Harold to college. We have set our hearts on his having a college education. He says he wants to go to college but he thinks it would be better for him to spend a year more with his orchestra here, take a post graduate course and then go to college. What do you think?"

"I think that the boy does not need to go to college. He did not do well in school in any subject. He disliked studying except where it touched his music and then it was not studying for him. It was fun. The lad should go to a school that would train him to be a musician."

"But he says he wants to go to college."

"True. But he says that because he has been told that he should want to go. He has heard that he is to go to college ever since he was a baby. You must not judge a child's wish by what he says. You must watch what he does to know what he truly wants to do. Your boy wants to lead an orchestra. He does not want, nor is he able to do, the work of the general college course. He will be dead unhappy and make a failure of it just as he has done repeatedly in school."

"But he graduated and he says he wants to go to college. He thinks he will be better prepared a year from now after he has had a post graduate course with you. He thinks he is not as well prepared as other boys are. What do you think?"

It is very difficult for parents to see that their children are saying what they believe their parents want them to say. It is so hard for a parent to unlearn himself about his own child. He cannot see that the idea he has been putting before his child for all the years of his growing is only a veneer that is expressed in speech. The real desire of the child is expressed in his conduct. Always.

Judge the kind and quality of a child by what he does. I do not mean an isolated action. A boy may do a wrong act, he may do a noble act. Unless the action is characteristic he is not to be judged by it. What the child does day after day, time after time, is the voice and the spirit of the child talking to you. Heed that. Guide by that.

It is so easy to take the child at his word and feel happy about it. Look a little below the surface. See what it really moving the child to action. There you will discover his real purpose and motive. His words are not safe.

Santa Ana Red Cross announced its readiness to co-operate with the health officer in any crisis arising from the flu epidemic. The chapter would assist in securing a building if necessary to establish an emergency hospital, and Mrs. W. S. Rose, head of the first aid committee, promised to take charge of such a hospital at a moment's notice. In view of the possible emergency call, she asked for names of capable women who would volunteer for nursing duty.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Knight received word that their son, Maurice Knight, stationed at Camp Johnston, Jacksonville, Fla., had received his commission as second lieutenant.

The name of Dr. J. M. Burlew was added to the medical examining board of the local exemption board. The medical board was composed also of Drs. D. F. Royer, J. I. Clark, J. P. Boyd and W. C. DuBois.

The thirty-acre bean crop raised on Youngling's ranch at Talbert by Clyde and Paul Plavan, was harvested under the direction of F. D. Plavan and turned out well.
